SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Layoffs at private hospitals increased Friday as doctors continued their protest against rate rises for malpractice insurance. A physicians spokesman said about 2,000 doctors were "effectively" out of practice in northern California.

The 362-bed Children's Hospital shut its obstetrical-gynecological section of 20 beds and six delivery rooms because of a lack of anesthesiologists, the hospital announced. Other hospitals were cutting back as well.

The hospitals referred pregnant women to public hospitals not affected by the malpractice situation because they have different insurance arrangements.

The protest, which began Thursday, was against increases of up to 322% in malpractice insurance.

Dr. Sanford Marcus, president of the Union of American Physicians, said a law is needed to relieve doctors of what he called excessive insurance premiums. He also called for a law that would take action against "incompetent and unscrupulous physicians," whom he blamed for the present situation.

Marcus said only emergency surgery is being done in most private hospitals in eight Northern California counties.

"About 2,000 doctors are effectively not practicing medicine," he said. "I would say that 50% of all hospital services have terminated."

One anesthesiologist is on duty each shift at each private hospital to handle emergency cases, Marcus said, adding that no elective surgery is being done.

"The anesthesiologists — the spearhead of this effort, actually — are not accepting fees and are praying that they will be protected by California's Good Samaritan Law," the general surgeon said.

The law says no licensed doctor "who renders care at the scene of an emergency shall be liable for any civil damages as a result of any acts or omissions by such persons." Some officials feel, however, that the law does not cover hospitals despite the lack of fees.

The anesthesiologists, who had been charged an average of $5,377 a year for high risk insurance, were told their annual premium would go as high as $22,000 Thursday. Psychiatrists, considered low-risk, were hiked from $1,131 to $4,912 a year.

Dr. Marcus said half the 4,000 northern California doctors insured by the Argonaut Insurance Co. of California, writer of malpractice insurance in 30 states, have shut their practices for now.

"In my own case, I am not doing any new surgery, but I am taking care of patients in other ways, changing bandages, taking out stitches," he said, adding that he can't afford the $22,000 a year Argonaut is asking him to pay.

Most "primary care" physicians were in their offices. They include pediatricians, internists and general practitioners.

Auto Insurance Rate Hikes OK'd

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The State Insurance Department Friday approved rate adjustments for roughly 160 auto insurance companies, forcing higher costs for policies statewide but slight decreases for some Lincoln drivers.

Don Deal, supervisor of the department's property and casualty division, reported the following action on rate applications:

—The Insurance Service Office of Nebraska, an umbrella organization for roughly 150 insurance firms, got an average statewide rate increase of 4.5%.

But Deal said in Lincoln the action forecasts drops in the cost of certain coverage, because accidents have been fewer, less costly and less severe.

The Insurance Service Office includes some of the larger firms, such as Travelers and Hartford, as well as some smaller ones. The rate is effective on June 4 for new policies and Aug. 1 for renewals.

—MFA Insurance Co. was granted a 5.6% average increase in rates.

—Ten smaller insurance companies were given 5% rate increases.

Deal said the department should complete action on Allstate's rate application sometime next week. He said Allstate will get an 8.7% increase with some minor changes.

Allstate, he said, wanted but will not be allowed to drop its 15% credit for people who have passed drivers training courses.

In other states, he said this has been approved since drivers training is mandatory; in Nebraska such training is not required in order to get a license. Instead of giving the credit, Allstate wanted to lower everybody's rate by 10%, he said.

"For so many years, the companies have pushed drivers training. We feel it's still a worthwhile inducement," Deal said.

Industrywide, Deal said data shows the cost of medical and comprehensive coverage is down, while losses for bodily injury and property damage are up.

Consequently, he said, the exact impact of the rate adjustments varies according to the types of coverage each driver has and where he lives.

Youth in Action Grade School Filmmakers Take Top Prize In Festival

By PATTY BEUTLER

Take a group of 5th and 6th graders at Pershing School, add a movie camera, two bright lights, some 8mm film, a month of brainstorming and let the cameras roll.

Who could expect these first-time filmmakers would capture the top prize in the state junior division of the Young Filmmakers' Festival 1974-75?

Certainly not the youngsters themselves who giggled and blushed after viewing their first attempt at writing, directing, acting, producing and filming the four-minute flick.

Only media specialist Mabel Stansbury guessed at the creative capacity within these primary-level youngsters.

"We didn't really like it because it was us in it," Ronda Francis said, wrinkling up her nose. "And we didn't want to brag either," Diane Parde added.

But many liked it. Kevin Wills finally admitted and both girls agreed with him without much coaxing.

In fact, the three confided they "gloated about it" when they learned their film was selected first in the state and would be forwarded to New York for national competition.

How 15 wildly imaginative young minds could corral their creativity in a cooperative effort is a story in itself.

"It took us more than a week just to pick a title," Kevin sighed.

Finally the youngsters settled on "Dream On. Your Career Is Sooner Than You Think."

That set the wheels of production in motion, as the filmmakers gazed into a crystal ball and conjured up their future careers.

For background, the kids made cartoon think bubbles to clue viewers in to the chosen careers.

The camera then faded from the crayoned depictions to a sampling of what their jobs would be all about.

"We didn't know how to act," Diane lamented. "Half of us were biting our nails off because we'd never been on camera."

Kevin said he was nervous for other reasons. "We knew the film was going to be entered in a competition to be viewed by experts." He was worried about making the grade.

Mrs. Stansbury and public school technical adviser Bruce Anderson supervised the production.

"They were there if we needed them," Kevin explained. "But as long as we didn't get in trouble, they sat back and watched us."

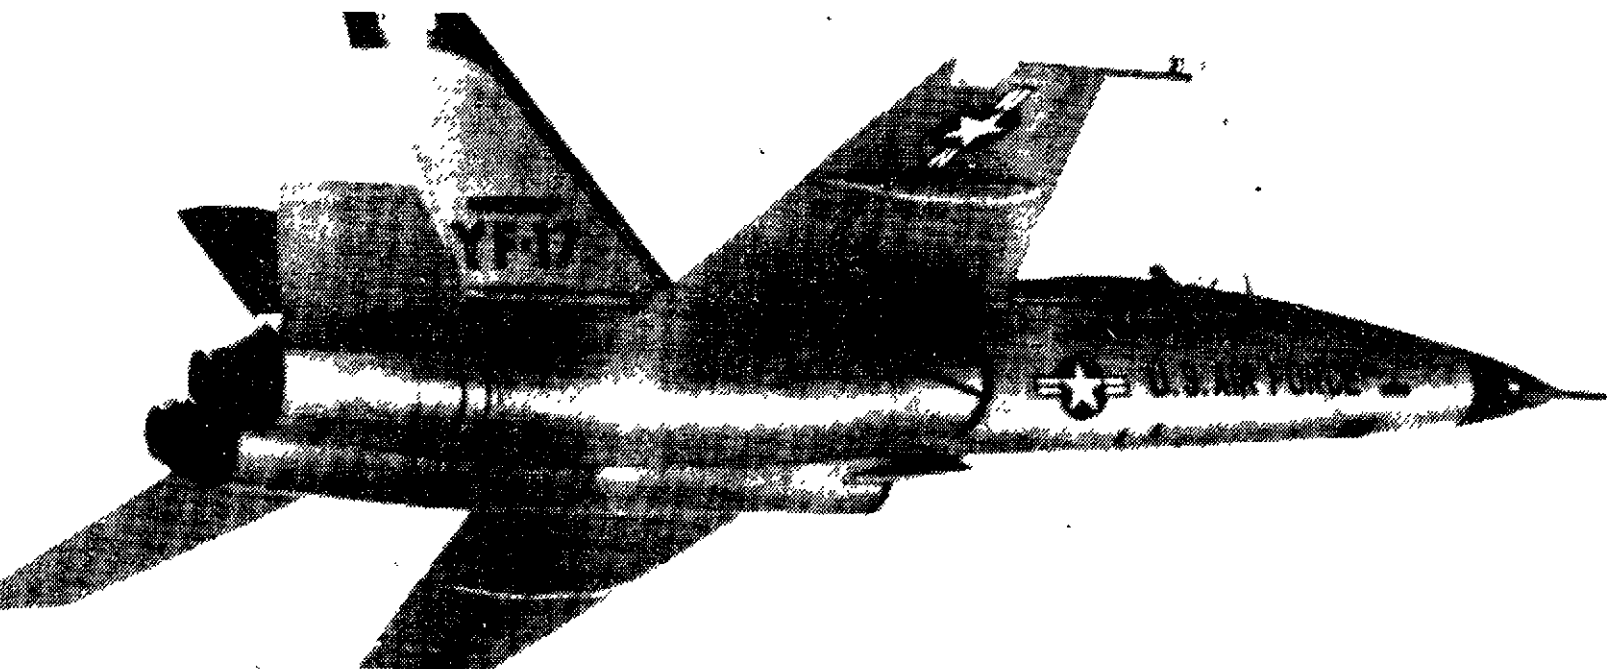

In addition to filming techniques, the kids learned how to use animation for the title and credits.

"It was like the names just walked up there themselves," Diane said, still slightly amazed.

Most of the kids were struck by the fact that the finished tape was so long but their film was so short.

And they couldn't believe the amount of time and effort that went into their small production.

Thinking about those long movies he sees on television, Kevin knowingly observed, "You can tell it takes 10 times longer to make it than the show is."

AIR FORCE F17 . . . nearly identical to F18 selected as new Navy fighter.

Navy Chooses F18 As Lightweight Fighter

Washington (UPI) — The Navy announced Friday that McDonnell Douglas Corp. of St. Louis and Northrop Corp. of Hawthorne, Calif., won the design competition for the new F18 jet fighter. It conceded the choice violated the expressed desires of Congress.

Navy undersecretary David S. Potter told a news conference, "we have made a selection based on Navy requirements and Navy needs."

A reporter noted that Congress last year told the Navy to adapt the Air Force's choice of a lightweight fighter. "It is perfectly clear that this does not meet the language of Congress," Potter said. "It has this unfortunate property."

He said he hoped to be able to convince Congress to change its mind.

The Navy said the F18 design was a derivative of the F17 which lost the Air Force competition for a lightweight fighter earlier this year to the F16.

The losing design in the Navy competition was a derivative of the F16 submitted by LTV of Dallas, Tex., and General Dynamics of Fort Worth, Tex. Potter said the F16 would have been cheaper but contended it was unsuitable for carrier use.

Potter put the cost of 800 F18s at $7.6 million each in 1975 dollars plus the costs of spare parts.

The F16 and F17 have much smaller radars so they cannot see enemy planes from as far away. The smaller dish in the nose permits the whole plane to be smaller lighter and cheaper. The F16 will cost about $6 million each.

Although the Navy has chosen to give the plane a new number, Potter said the only real differences were a larger wing and more powerful engines than the F17.

Potter said the McDonnell Douglas-Northrop design was better for the Navy because it could come in for a landing at the slower speeds required by carriers and had a frame that could better take the pummeling of carrier hook landings and catapult takeoffs.

Prison Construction Compromise Said Probable

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

A new compromise between Gov. J. James Exon and the Legislature over prison construction plans appeared to be within reach late Friday.

After conferring with the governor in his office, both Sens. John Cavanaugh III of Omaha and Roland Luedtke of Lincoln were optimistic that a new solution can be reached.

"It appears that we will reach an agreement," Cavanaugh told newsmen after emerging from Exon's office.

'Not Far Apart'

"I think there will be an agreement," Luedtke said. "We're not that far apart."

An earlier prison construction plan agreed to by the governor and the Judiciary Committee was shattered on the floor of the Legislature Thursday, triggering a veto threat from Exon.

It was Cavanaugh who engineered the new proposal, which substituted two smaller medium-minimum security facilities for the single 300-inmate prison proposed in the earlier agreement.

Big Lincoln Prison

The new compromise proposal, if it is finally agreed to, would retain the two-prison plan, but provide for a larger institution in Lincoln than the 175-inmate facility proposed by Cavanaugh.

The Lincoln prison would be on the order of 200 to 250 inmates.

Plans would then be authorized for future construction of a second institution at an unspecified site.

"Obviously," Luedtke said, "that one probably would be in Omaha."

The facilities would replace the Men's Reformatory in Lincoln.

Costs Need Study

The compromise agreement hinges on cost estimates which are to be developed over the weekend.

"If we can agree on costs and financing, I think we will reach an agreement," Cavanaugh said.

Friday's meeting included six senators and State Correctional Services Director Joseph Vitek.

In addition to Luedtke and Cavanaugh, Sens. Steve Fowler of Lincoln, Gary Anderson of Axtell, Frank Lewis of Bellevue and Douglas Bereuter of Uta participated in the conference.

Hashing It Out

"The governor and I decided to try to get everyone together and talk out our differences," Luedtke said.

"I don't want a wipeout again."

Prison construction plans fell victim to differences among senators and between the governor and the Legislature in 1973 and 1974.

Luedtke, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said the governor and he have been essentially in agreement since conclusion of the 1973 legislative session.

The prison plan is contained in LB417, now awaiting second stage consideration in the Unicameral.

2 Of Same Size

In its present form, it envisions two 175-inmate institutions, with the second medium-minimum security facility to be located at an unspecified site, and calls for planning for new maximum security facilities for 250 inmates.

Cavanaugh, who won 26-13 legislative approval for his plan, said the meeting with Exon was "productive."

Another meeting is tentatively scheduled for early next week.

Refugee Armada Sailing For Freedom

From Press Reports

Aboard The USS Blue Ridge — From 50,000 to 80,000 refugees, many without sufficient food and water, are at sea in flight from conquered South Vietnam, according to messages pouring into this 7th Fleet command and communications vessel.

The additional refugees bring the number who escaped South Vietnam to about 120,000.

In Washington President Ford extended parole authority to permit the South Vietnamese refugees in the South China Sea to enter the United States, the State Department said Friday.

40-Vessel Armada

The Blue Ridge is sailing in the middle of a 45-vessel 7th Fleet armada which engineered the final evacuation of Saigon on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Preliminary messages told of a hastily organized convoy of 27 South Vietnamese vessels carrying refugees estimated variously from 10,000 to 40,000 persons from the island of Phu Quoc along the southern coast.

The defeated South Vietnamese government shipped more than 50,000 refugees to the island to keep them out of Saigon after their flight from the north three weeks ago. The island is less than eight miles from Cambodia and about 25 miles from the Vietnamese mainland.

Vessel Sinking

The Danish freighter Clara Maersk picked up about 3,000 South Vietnamese refugees from a sinking vessel in the South China Sea, the Danish state radio reported Friday night.

The first U.S. 7th Fleet refugee ship from Indochinese waters docked at Subic Bay Navy Base Saturday with 2,000 evacuees, including several dozen Americans. Seven more ships were scheduled to arrive later in the day.

The first ship to dock was the 32,800-ton helicopter carrier USS Hancock. Eight Vietnamese air force helicopters were parked on the flight deck. Their pilots had flown the choppers packed with friends and relatives to the carrier during the massive evacuation Tuesday.

In addition to the numbers flocking from Phu Quoc, authorities aboard the Blue Ridge said at least 12,000 were on two barges which fled New Port in Saigon and Can Tho in the Mekong Delta, about 7,000 were on Navy ships after being lifted by helicopter out of Saigon, 8,000 were aboard the chartered merchant vessel SS Greenville Victory, 3,500 were aboard the SS American Challenger plus uncounted tens of thousands on other craft.

MSC authorities reported Tuesday 1,000 fishing boats left Vung Tau harbor with a passenger load conservatively estimated at 15,000-20,000.

Refugees Fly Into Heartlands

By United Press International
Vietnamese refugees, many shivering in sweaters and thin shirts on a drizzling Arkansas day, flew into the heartlands of America Friday to the tune of a high school band's "Star Spangled Banner" and mixed cries of "welcome!" and "go back to Nam!"

The cheers of greeting drowned out the protests as the vanguard of an expected 20,000 refugees arrived at Ft. Chafee, Ark., to begin a new life in hastily assembled camps.

Hundreds more were arriving hourly at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

As the first arrivals huddled on the runway near their huge Air Force C141 at the Fort Smith Municipal Airport, Arkansas Gov. David H. Pryor told them:

"We hope you realize that we share the agony, pain and sorrow you have experienced. You find yourself in a new land. It's the nature of man to fear the unknown but let me assure you of the spirit of friendship of our people."

It was the first mass arrival of refugees in midland America, and in the midst of the estimated 500 residents and officials on hand were persons waving hand-lettered signs — all but one expressing wholehearted welcome.

State Sen. Milt Earmhard had a sign reading "kumkaw" — Vietnamese for welcome.

The first off the plane was Dr. Lam Van Pach, former director general of the National Rehabilitative Institute of Vietnam.

Lam, presented with a bouquet of carnations garnished with red, white and blue ribbons, was obviously moved. He told the crowd:

"We had to leave our country, all that we had. We hope the U.S. government will give us a chance to make again our lives, new lives."

Five C141s were to bring an estimated 350 refugees to Ft. Chafee from Guam Friday. It was the first group assigned outside Camp Pendleton, Calif. Others will fly to a camp at Elgin Air Force Base, Fla., Saturday.

At Pendleton, the thousands of refugees housed in a huge camp near the Pacific Ocean were to be joined by at least 3,000 more Friday. The first contingents, many of the wives, children and in-laws of Americans have already left for homes across the United States.

The total number of refugees could number as high as 100,000. The majority of those yet to arrive are without relatives or friends in America.

Only Vietnamese with American sponsors are allowed out of the camps, by federal orders. And for those at Camp Pendleton it was a long, frustrating, and in some cases almost hopeless wait.

One of them is Doan Thi Loa Smith, 41, the widow of an American mechanic, William Smith, who was killed in Vietnam in 1973. With her daughter, Tina Marie, 4, she is searching for her dead husband's son by a previous marriage. But all she knows is that his name is Gary Smith and he lives somewhere in the United States.

"I no like," she said of camp life. "I eat, I walk outside, I sit down, I come back inside, I sit down," explaining she had worked as an Army mess hall cook in Vietnam, she said she hopes to get a cooking job.

"I no like living on charity," she said.

In Miami, 31 refugees arrived Thursday night and were welcome by Cuban exiles — members of the International Rescue Committee — who themselves fled to this country during the Communist takeover of their homeland.

The committee will help the refugees find work and housing.

"The main thing for a refugee is to have a feeling that someone cares," said Vivian de Sosa, a volunteer worker who was on hand to greet the Vietnamese. "Cubans should feel more inclined to help the Vietnamese now. Many of us had a rough time in the '60s."

If All Else Fails, Relax!

Cynthia Stone, 5, watches very closely and with considerable apprehension as East Joliet, Ill., fireman Jay Hughes swings a sledge hammer in an unsuccessful attempt to extricate her from a sewer pipe. Two other firemen are holding the trapped girl. The sledge hammer method failed, as did pouring three gallons of cooking oil over the child to try and slip her out of the pipe. Finally, the girl was given a muscle relaxant and firemen were then able to pull her out of the pipe when she fell asleep.

Man, 28, Impaled By Post

BOSTON (AP) — A 28-year-old man had a wooden fence post four inches in diameter driven through his chest in an auto accident Friday.

Thomas Brennan of Brockton was in critical condition at Boston City Hospital after surgery to remove the post.

Fire Department rescue crews used an electric saw to cut off lengths of the fence post protruding from his chest and back. A team of seven surgeons removed the remaining 18 inches of wood from Brennan's body.

Police said the car driven by Brennan left a residential street, went through a chain-link fence, hit a wooden utility pole and struck a wooden fence. One of the posts in the wooden fence broke off, crashed through the windshield and pierced Brennan's chest.

Police estimated the car was traveling between 80 and 100 miles an hour when it left the roadway.

Viets Want Planes Back; U.S.-Thai Relations Strained

By United Press International
The Vietnamese Communists Friday demanded the return of aircraft, ships and other property taken by refugees fleeing South Vietnam. The action threatened to snarl already strained relations between the United States and Thailand.

The demand appeared aimed particularly at Thailand where 129 South Vietnamese warplanes and other aircraft had landed, bringing in thousands of refugees immediately following the Communist seizure of Saigon early this week.

The United States hastily organized an airlift to fly the refugees from the U Tapao Air Base in Thailand to the U.S. island of Guam in the Pacific.

North Vietnam and the new Viet Cong regime in South Vietnam demanded the prompt return of the U.S.-made planes and other "stolen property" ranging from ships to gold.

But the United States also claimed the aircraft, saying it "retains ultimate title" to South Vietnamese warplanes because of aid clauses prohibiting transfer of military equipment to other governments.

Thailand, anxious to be on good terms with its new Communist neighbor, first said it would return the planes to the new Viet Cong regime but later said it believed they belonged to the United States.

The insistent Communist demands came at a time of increasingly strained relations between the United States and Thailand, the last country in the area where the United States maintains troops and air bases.

Thailand's foreign minister, Chatchai Choonhavan, said Friday his country would defend itself without American help, charging that the United States is a nation without morals that cannot be depended on to fulfill its obligations.

Thai officials announced there would soon be a massive withdrawal of U.S. forces from Thailand.

Friction Mounts Among Portuguese Leftists

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Thousands of Socialists marched through central Lisbon in a mass demonstration Friday night against their Communist rivals, bringing the two parties close to open confrontation.

Watched by 300 heavily armed troops on trucks and armored cars, the Socialists gathered in downtown Rossio Square, nearly filling it, and then marched arm-in-arm shouting "Socialism yes, dictatorship no" and "The Socialist party won." They referred to the April 25 election in which the Socialists emerged as the strongest party, well ahead of the Communists.

The march was the most tense action yet in an increasingly bitter rivalry between the two parties.

It was called after Thursday's May Day celebrations, organized by the Communist-dominated central trade union, Intersindical, whose guards barred Socialist leader Mario Soares and other Socialist party officials from taking part.

In a sharp statement, the Socialists said the Communists had threatened Soares with violence and accused the Communists of using all means possible to minimize the overwhelming Socialist election victory. The Socialists polled 37 per cent of the vote for a constitutional assembly, while the Communists could muster only 12 per cent.

With the centrist Popular Democrat party, also committed to a program of democracy and civil liberties, the moderate vote was 63 per cent to just 17 for the Communist front.

On May Day, though, the Communist newspaper "Avante" accused Soares of "taking a sudden anti-Communist turn" and of "being arrogant toward Portuguese Communists."

In a pointed reference to the fighting between the two parties, Premier Vasco Gonçalves appealed during the rally, which

This Cabbie Really Got Stuck

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — When cabbie David Holman gets stuck for a fare, he really gets stuck.

Holman, 22, picked up two women passengers here and agreed to drive them to Florida. When he got to Lauderdale-by-the-Sea, the women asked him to stop so they could buy some bikinis. That was the last he saw of them.

"There I was without a dime, an eighth of a tank of gas and 1,300 miles from Windsor," lamented Holman.

He didn't despair, though. He started home, ran out of gas and hitch-hiked to Orlando, where the Salvation Army put him up. Then he called the cab company for money.

"I guess I'll get fired when I get back," he said, "but I don't care. I had a good time, and I got a bit of a suntan. I'll be able to find another job."

Holman was on the way home Friday, with $60 from his parents and $100 from the cab company. He had to pay $45 from the total to get his cab back. It was towed away from the highway where he left it when it ran out of gas.

"I saw they had several 50-dollar bills and a whole bunch of 20s and I didn't really think I'd get burned," Holman said. He added the girls told him they had rich relatives in Florida. Fare for the ride would have totaled about $1,000.

"The girls' looks, the money they showed me and a few drinks influenced my decision to make the long drive," said Holman, a student at the University of Windsor.

On the trip, the women paid for living expenses and Holman for gas. Holman said he waited about three hours for the women to return from buying bikinis before admitting it was he who had been taken for a ride.

Refugees Fly Into Heartlands

By United Press International

Vietnamese refugees, many shivering in sweaters and thin shirts on a drizzling Arkansas day, flew into the heartlands of America Friday to the tune of a high school band's "Star Spangled Banner" and mixed cries of "welcome!" and "go back to Nam!"

The cheers of greeting drowned out the protests as the vanguard of an expected 20,000 refugees arrived at Ft. Chafee, Ark., to begin a new life in hastily assembled camps.

Hundreds more were arriving hourly at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

As the first arrivals huddled on the runway near their huge Air Force C141 at the Fort Smith Municipal Airport, Arkansas Gov. David H. Pryor told them:

"We hope you realize that we share the agony, pain and sorrow you have experienced. You find yourself in a new land. It's the nature of man to fear the unknown but let me assure you of the spirit of friendship of our people."

It was the first mass arrival of refugees in midland America, and in the midst of the estimated 500 residents and officials on hand were persons waving hand-lettered signs — all but one expressing wholehearted welcome.

State Sen. Milt Earnhard had a sign reading "kumkaw" — Vietnamese for welcome.

The first off the plane was Dr. Lam Van Pach, former director general of the National Rehabilitative Institute of Vietnam.

Lam, presented with a bouquet of carnations garnished with red, white and blue ribbons, was obviously moved. He told the crowd:

"We had to leave our country, all that we had. We hope the U.S. government will give us a chance to make again our lives, new lives."

Five C141s were to bring an estimated 350 refugees to Ft. Chafee from Guam Friday. It was the first group assigned outside Camp Pendleton, Calif. Others will fly to a camp at Elgin Air Force Base, Fla., Saturday.

At Pendleton, the thousands of refugees housed in a huge camp near the Pacific Ocean were to be joined by at least 3,000 more Friday. The first contingents, many of the wives, children and in-laws of Americans have already left for homes across the United States.

Unemployment Hits 8.9%; Total Employment Also Up

Washington (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate climbed to a new post-World War II high of 8.9% in April, the government reported Friday, but some hopeful signs emerged in the job picture. Despite an 0.2% rise in the over-all jobless rate, total employment gained for the first time in seven months. Factory layoffs increased but at a declining rate and there was a slight rise in the length of work week.

Ford administration officials said these indicators suggested a further weakening of the recession with employment deteriorating less drastically.

"Most employment indicators which tend to move early are improving and therefore suggest the possibility that the forces of recovery are beginning to stir," Commissioner of Labor Statistics Julius Shiskin told the congressional Joint Economic Committee.

Employment, which had declined by 2.6 million since September, increased last month by 240,000 to 84.1 million. But because more people went looking for work in April and only about half could find jobs, unemployment also increased.

The Labor Department said joblessness rose by 200,000 in April to a total 8,176,000 out of a civilian labor force of 92.3 million. The previous month joblessness increased by 500,000.

The jobless rate, since hitting 8% in January, has remained at the highest level since in 34 years. It had not exceeded the 8% rate since 1941, when the annual rate averaged 9.9% out of a labor force of 55.9 million.

Most economists predict the rate will rise about 9% before it begins a gradual decline later this year.

Appearing before the same committee as Shiskin, Alan Greenspan, President Ford's economic adviser, said unemployment at year's end is likely to be just "a shade under where we are now."

But Greenspan told the committee that he saw "distinctly hopeful evidence" of an economic rebound that will be between "moderate and vigorous" during the second half of the year.

"We're approaching the end of the recession," Greenspan said. "We may wobble on the bottom for a while but then we'll start up."

In its report, the Labor Department's total nonfarm payroll employment held steady in April at 76.3 million after five straight months of sharp declines.

Declines in manufacturing continued in April but at a slower pace.

Friction Mounts Among Portuguese Leftists

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Thousands of Socialists marched through central Lisbon in a mass demonstration Friday night against their Communist rivals, bringing the two parties close to open confrontation.

Watched by 300 heavily armed troops on trucks and armored cars, the Socialists gathered in downtown Rossio Square, nearly filling it, and then marched arm-in-arm shouting "Socialism yes, dictatorship no" and "The Socialist party won." They referred to the April 25 election in which the Socialists emerged as the strongest party, well ahead of the Communists.

The march was the most tense action yet in an increasingly bitter rivalry between the two parties.

It was called after Thursday's May Day celebrations, organized by the Communist-dominated central trade union, Intersindical, whose guards barred Socialist leader Mario Soares and other Socialist party officials from taking part.

In a sharp statement, the Socialists said the Communists

On May Day, though, the Communist newspaper "Avante" accused Soares of "taking a sudden anti-Communist turn" and of "being arrogant toward Portuguese Communists."

The trade unions — under the umbrella of the Communist-dominated Intersindical — are a key issue in the country. Soares and the Socialists, in an effort to gain some influence with the left-leaning military that is ruling the country, have called for freely elected union officials.

Widow Fears Entertaining

By JOANNE FARRIS
QUESTION: "I read your column all the time and find many helpful ideas. Since I've been a widow for seven months, I'm trying to start doing a few of the things you have suggested. I do volunteer work at the YWCA twice a week, and I walk to and from work to get plenty of outdoor exercise. But I am fearful about entertaining."
"I know that it is time for me to repay some of my associates who have been hospitable to me, but I am afraid. Can you suggest how I can overcome this shortcoming?"

ANSWER: — You don't have a shortcoming. You are just experiencing a normal reluctance to entertain without your spouse. My first idea is to invite four or five close friends in for a simple buffet dinner.

If that sounds like too much, invite one couple that you are "easy" with, have them for dinner or Sunday brunch.

If you serve drinks, ask the man to prepare them, if that is hard for you to do because it reminds you of the past.

If you have the ingredients and glasses set out, no one needs fixing his or her own beverage, anyhow.

If you feel the need to entertain say six or eight couples, why not do them two at a time and serve the same menu for each party?

If you space the parties 10 days or so apart, you won't get too fatigued, or tired of the food, and you will be surprised to find that you have entertained quite a few people with minimal strain.

QUESTION: — "I am a mature woman, completely alone in the world, and absolutely without one person to turn to for advice and help...

"Have tried all over town to find people for me to form friendships with. No one will have anything to do with me..."

"The people in this town are prejudiced, narrow-minded, biased, selfish, greedy and hateful. The town is dying on its feet, but they won't admit it..."

"My life here is so unnatural, so unreal. Would you advise me to move to some other city and simply live on unemployment benefits until I could obtain work? What can I do?"

ANSWER: — I have shortened your letter for this article, but it is clear that you are actually in pain living where you are now.

As you say you have tried everything you could do to find someone who would be friendly, I heartily urge you to move somewhere else.

It's no fun moving, but it is better to put up with some temporary discomfort in order to get yourself established in a town or city where you feel that you have a chance to make friends or at least have people around with whom you can speak.

Ryan Student Wins Prize For Essay

A first prize of $100 went to Michael T. Gibson of Ryan High School in Omaha for his winning essay submitted to a Nebraska Peace Prize contest. His subject was "The CIA: Does It Promote War or Peace?"

The essay contest has become an annual event for state high school students. There were 121 papers submitted, according to NFP coordinator Dick Littleton of Lincoln.

An essay, "Affluence and Hunger," won the $50-second place prize for Ric Miller of Sidney High School.

Third place was shared by Katherine Humlick of Prague, who attends Bishop Neumann High in Wahoo, and by Marcia Bedke, a Ravenna High student. Their topics were "Jane Adams, Peace For All Men" and "Buddhism and the World." Each received $25. In addition 13 other essays were given honorable mention and a $10 prize.

Meet Star Carrier Arthur Dale

The route and benefits are great, says Arthur Dale of Wymore.

A carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star for nine months, Arthur feels that the rewards of a paper route are many but stresses the opportunity to talk to people as one of the most important ones. Praised by his supervisor for his excellent service and good attitude, Arthur has also shown a marked talent for salesmanship and has increased his route by a sizable percentage.

A student at Wymore Public School, Arthur plays the trumpet in the junior band, enjoys studying Indian history and culture and hopes to become a museum caretaker some day. In his spare time Arthur likes to swim, hike and camp out. He also enjoys collecting stamps and building models.

Other activities include participation in the Methodist Youth Fellowship and the Boy Scout programs.

His parents, Rev and Mrs. John Dale, feel that the paper route has helped their son "in many ways" and are especially proud of his fine sales program and his increased sense of responsibility.

A Tip Of The Hat

Dawson County Extension Agent Harold Stevens was inducted into the Animal Science Hall of Fame at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Friday when he was also named the 1975 Block and Bridle Honoree. The student organization presents the award each year to an individual who has made outstanding contributions to the livestock industry.

This year's choice was outstanding by any standard.

We couldn't begin to recount all of Stevens' constructive activities and accomplishments during his career as an extension educator.

We should mention, though, that his 4-H judging teams have won so consistently at state and national contests that some newspapers claim they will print stories about his teams only if they lose — then it is news.

In addition, Stevens has helped to make his county a leader in livestock production, in feedlot modernization with pollution control systems, in alfalfa production and swine production. Sheep production has not been neglected either.

His leadership has extended particularly to youth . . . in insisting that kids learn by doing rather than having adults do it for them.

Stevens is known to be outspoken, sometimes abrasive, but also as an enthusiastic sort who works unlimited hours for Dawson County folks and who, in the words of one observer, "is a combination farm expert, chamber of commerce, community leader and internationalist involved in people to people trips of all kinds."

If imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, there is a good chance Stevens should feel flattered. His county livestock tours are so well recognized that farmers from many other counties attend regularly to see some of the latest techniques he has introduced.

Hats off to Harold Stevens, 1975 Block and Bridle Honoree!

Lincoln Airport Authority

The Lincoln Airport Authority is a governmental subdivision so little in the public eye that it is almost a form of shadow government. Many people in Lincoln who are taxed to support in part airport operations are unaware of the authority's duties, what it controls, what it does in general. Many may not even know who serves on it and since its creation few citizens with a bent for public service have even filed for election to the authority. It stays pretty much in the same hands.

But perhaps one reason that it appears to be a "shadow government" is that it really is a "specialized" governmental subdivision devoted to the complexities of obtaining better air service, airport development and operations and property management — and some of the duties attract little citizen interest. Another reason is that over the years the authority has done a good job of what it is required to do. It has been blessed, too, with good staff and advice.

Time For Reflection

WASHINGTON — After the fall of Saigon, renamed Ho-City, you might think that Washington needs a little time for quiet reflection, but that's not the way it is. The hunt is on for explanations, lessons, and scapegoats, and our gabbier politicians are popping off before they have anything sensible to say.

Some of them suggest we need a new beginning with a new secretary of state. Some, including the Senate majority leader, Mike Mansfield, of all people, think that maybe we should begin thinking about withdrawing our troops from South Korea, probably the next target of communist pressure. Others want fewer refugees, more military arms, and a reappraisal of our whole policy of detente and leadership in the world.

This was probably inevitable after the blunders and disappointments in Southeast Asia, but it is not very helpful. All the major capitals are reappraising their future policies now, and sudden decisions in Washington or emotional talk about getting out of Korea can only make things even worse than they actually are.

In Europe, Japan, the Middle East, Moscow and Peking, officials are probably paying more attention to Washington's reaction to the events in Southeast Asia than to the fall of Saigon itself. Particularly, Indonesia, the Philippines, Thailand, Australia, and New Zealand will be looking to the future of American policy rather than the past.

Accordingly, it is a delicate moment in world politics, a time for caution and reflection. There is, for example, a struggle now going on in the cabinet in Ankara whether Turkey should not cut its ties with the North Atlantic Alliance and side with the oil states in the Middle East, which have the fuel and the money. Thus, any sign of doubt, weakness, or withdrawal now in Washington could shake the whole system of alliances in the free world.

This point is clearly understood by the administration here. President Ford and Secretary of State Kissinger have said very little in public, but they have been in touch privately with the allies, trying to calm things down, and with Moscow and Peking to avoid any misinterpretations of Washington's acceptance of the defeat in Southeast Asia.

Kissinger got very little help from Peking in his efforts to avoid a battle for Saigon, and no help at all from Prince Norodom Sihanouk for cooperation in the surrender of Cambodia, but he did get at least limited assistance from the Soviets, and it is interesting that Moscow has not allowed the communist capture of Saigon to interfere with its policy of detente with the United States.

In the Middle East, which is now the most dangerous area of world politics, neither the Arabs nor the Israelis, who rejected Kissinger's efforts at mediation, have sided with those who are now calling for his resignation. On the contrary, in these critical days of the collapse of his policy in Indochina, both Sadat in Cairo and Rabin in Jerusalem have expressed their hope that he will be around for the next phase of the Middle East negotiations.

The White House staff is bombarded with questions but is likewise pleading for patience. Ron Nessen, the President's press secretary, showed up at a news briefing wearing a bulletproof vest. It would withstand .38 caliber gunfire, he said, but he didn't know whether it would stand up under the fire of reporter's questions. It was a weak cry for mercy, but even humor is no defense in Washington these days.

For the rest of May, the administration will be trying to reach a new understanding and better consultation with Congress and the allies on future foreign policy. Next week, the foreign ministers of the Latin American countries will be in Washington, and it is Kissinger's hope that this will begin a new and major effort to reappraise the economic, and political defense of the hemisphere.

Kissinger concedes now that in the preoccupation with Southeast Asia and the Middle East in recent years, Washington has not paid as much attention to this hemisphere and to Europe and Japan as it should. After the O.A.S. meeting in Washington, there will be meetings with the NATO allies and later with Japan in an effort to restore the balance and improve the consultation in the free world.

Congress as a whole and particularly the members of the Foreign Relations and the Foreign Affairs Committees of the Senate and the House are eager to cooperate with the President and the secretary of state in this exercise.

While Mansfield and others are calling for a withdrawal of troops from Europe and Korea, a majority of Congress wants a new emphasis on holding the alliances together, and a strengthening of the trilateral relations among the Americas, Europe and Japan.

Apologies

Lincoln, Neb.
Mr. Charles Henkelmann has challenged my assertion (Star, May 1) that he became $10,000 richer as a consequence of the reasoning decision on Normal Boulevard. He indicated to me that his expenses were on the order of $4,000, so his profit was only about $6,000.

My apologies to Mr. Henkelmann for this error.

Believes Ad Misleading

Lincoln, Neb.
On April 30 an advertisement was printed in The Star in which I appeared as a signatory, in which it was suggested that candidates Boosalis, Bailey, Gauger, Tiwald and others should not be supported, not only because of the liberal causes they espoused, but because of the pay they or their spouses were already receiving from government sources. I signed this advertisement freely, but on reflection feel that it was misleading.

The issue should not be that people in the same family should not have state employment, but that since the positions here involved are those of public office, the election of the individuals cited may well result in an over-representation of one segment of the community. I believe that this is a consideration which it is legitimate to bring to the voters' attention. However, the particular issues on which the candidates stand out to be the principal reason for supporting or not supporting them.

Lincoln voters are given the opportunity Tuesday to select from a group of candidates for the school board those persons who will set the policy guiding the education and development of our children and future leaders. One of those candidates, Mrs. Williamette Shafer, is particularly well qualified for this position. As a former teacher, active civic worker and incumbent board member, she will bring to this post her much needed experience and perspective. As a former student of Willie Shafer, and as a current father of school-age children, I recommend her to the voters of Lincoln.

Resent Cheap Shots

Lincoln, Neb.
A paid ad in the April 30 Star asks rhetorically: "Is this the kind of city-county government you want?" The points made in the ad are most irresponsible, almost totally irrational and must be viewed as an insult to the sensitivities if not the intelligence of the Lincoln voters. I believe most people resent the cheap shots taken and have had quite enough of that sort of politics.

We have a unique opportunity next Tuesday to elect three of the most "people-oriented" candidates ever to present themselves for public service in our city. They have shown by their past performances and willingness to address the real issues before us that their primary concern is for the future well-being of all the people. Putting Helen Boosalis in the mayor's office, and adding Steve Tiwald and Bob Jearmy to the City Council would indeed be a giant step toward helping Lincoln reach its potential and become the kind of community we all want.

Lincoln, Neb.
Two concerns seem to warrant attention as we approach the end of our local political campaign.

The first is the political advertisement based on scare tactics by a group which euphemistically refers to itself as "Citizens for Concerned Government." Such a desperate resort to the use of labels and affiliations rather than records and issues constitutes the most despicable political campaigning it has been my misfortune to witness in 27 years as a resident of this community. It is earnestly to be hoped that this advertisement and the fabricated letters to Mrs. Boosalis do not portend a trend toward common use of such mud-slinging in future campaigns.

The second is the failure of the Lincoln Education Association's PACE committee to endorse so obviously capable a candidate as Jo Ann Maxey. Such a lack of social sensitivity does more harm to the LEA's image than it does to Mrs. Maxey and her campaign. Hopefully, many LEA members will cast their votes for Mrs. Maxey in disregard of the PACE action.

ERWIN H. GOLDENSTEIN

Lincoln, Neb.
A few years ago a large number of Americans elected to the highest public office in this country, the presidency of the United States, an individual who, they felt, possessed the professional qualifications and the personal characteristics essential to any individual seeking this magnanimous position. We doubt most of those who voted in that election gave long and serious consideration to the issue before making a final decision on the selection of a presidential candidate.

Not long ago, however, it was revealed to the world and to our chagrin that the "people's choice" in this particular instance was not exactly the greatest decision of all time, to say the least.

On Tuesday, May 6, Lincolnites will be faced with an equally important and difficult task — the selection of individuals who will be to a great extent responsible for the quality and caliber of education provided for the children of Lincoln. It appears to me that we might be wise to take one last, long, serious look at the candidates who are seeking election to the school board. Certainly we would like to be able to look back on this decision weeks, months, even years from now and still be able to say: "I made the best choice."

Jo Ann Maxey, in my opinion, is one of the school board candidates who, if given the opportunity, will accept the responsibility and the challenge of being a school board member with great pride, enthusiasm, integrity and sincerity. It is my belief that she will indeed prove to be tried and true.

Looking To Own Rhetoric

Lincoln, Neb.
The lead editorial in The Star on May 1 strikes me as childish and wrong. That editorial complains about certain political advertising and particularly about an ad directed against certain candidates and incumbents, namely, Bailey, Boosalis, Gauger, Hamilton, Jearmy, Robinson and Tiwald. These persons are described as "liberal" and "activist" and as having, in some instances, a direct or family association with the university or other public employment.

For the record, I did not assist in preparing the ad and I have no way to calculate its political effect. Further, I have supported more of the named persons than I have opposed, both personally and financially.

The Star stridently says that the ad is bad. Bad because the descriptive words are indefinite and provocative, but no more indefinite than the words, "conservative" or "businessman" and no more provocative than The Star's own use of the words "vicious" and "mudslinging."

Bad because the ad is not positive, but political opposition is as valid as political support and claims of "leadership" and "listening to people" (made by both candidates for mayor) are hardly the stuff of serious discussion.

In fact, the named persons are "activist" and "liberal," which I am sure they would be the first to acknowledge, and they are voluntarily in the public arena where they are subject to fair comment concerning their philosophies and their means of support.

The two tests of political free speech, including advertising, are reasonable accuracy and acknowledged authorship. Unless The Star has a complaint on one of those grounds, The Star should mind its own political rhetoric.

DAVID C. PIERSON

Campaigning By Fear

Lincoln, Neb.
No matter what one's political preferences may be in the present campaign for city offices, I would hope they would find, as I do, the kind of political irrationality and veiled viciousness represented by the ad on Page 2 of the April 30 Star totally unacceptable. The ad, paid for by a "Citizens for Concerned Government" group is reprehensible on several counts:

(1) Needless and irresponsible exploitation of latent antagonisms between the Lincoln community and the university at a time when closer cooperation and understanding are important for the common good.

(2) Irrelevant and chauvinist references to what husbands of female office-holders and candidates do and earn. What a person's spouse earns and does is not part of qualifications to hold office; but IF it were, what wives of males do and make would be of equal import.

(3) Implications that almost all the candidates and office-holders listed are already on the tax rolls. In fact, only one of them is, apart from the office itself (Steve Tiwald), and there is nothing, beyond the implication in the ad, which suggests that his work as a health planner makes him less rather than more open to the concerns of ALL the people.

(4) Obvious motivation of the ad and its purchasers, not by positive concerns, but by implied fears. The ad speaks for no position on any issue and for no candidate, only against some hinted-at dire possibilities.

(5) Use of non-specific and negatively loaded terms which say nothing in themselves, but again only hint at dreadful possibilities — "activist," "power bloc," "giveaway."

There is nothing suggested in this ad concerning attitudes toward city growth, toward the Police Department, or toward fiscal responsibility which could be substantiated by any action or any policy statement of any of the candidates or office-holders mentioned. The implication that they are somehow linked together in a sort of conspiracy against representative government cannot stand any possible test of reality. At least two of them are very much pitted against each other in the Council race, and they are all running separate campaigns.

This kind of politics and campaigning by fear, negativism, divisiveness, and innuendo has no place in our politics or our society.

Citizen Involvement

Lincoln, Neb.
There has been much discussion lately concerning the update of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Comprehensive Plan. Some of this discussion has questioned citizen participation through the Goals and Policies committee as it has dealt with the problem of Lincoln's eastward growth. Perhaps certain facts need to be clarified.

In 1970 it was determined that the 10-year-old comprehensive plan should be updated. Active involvement of the citizens was felt by both city and county governments to be necessary in planning for the future. The Goals and Policies Committee was established as a forum for this citizen involvement and input.

In order to involve the greatest number of citizens, invitations were sent to about 430 organizations to provide representatives for the committee. Included were such groups as businessmen, developers, churches, PTA's and farmers' organizations.

Citizen involvement was solicited through a series of video town meetings over ETC, as well as opportunities for participation in all Goals and Policies Committee meetings. The results of Goals and Policies have been continually updated and refined.

One of the goals recognized that growth should occur in an orderly manner, utilizing existing city services and facilities. It was felt that this could best be accomplished by first promoting growth in the north, south and west where these facilities exist.

Although the League of Women Voters has not endorsed the Goals and Policies Report, we do support a concept of balanced growth in order to maintain the downtown. We are also in agreement with a policy which promotes broad citizen involvement in the planning process.

It has been stated that there are certain barriers to growth to the west. This cannot be disputed. However, land development does not include only living units. Land can also be utilized for such things as parks and industrial sites.

Whichever way we grow affects the entire citizenry. In order to meet community needs, involvement of citizens from all segments of the population in the planning process needs to be encouraged.

Defense Of The Coyote

Valparaiso, Neb.
Nebraska is a state familiar with nature. It is one of few states where only a short distance from urban life one can see grass instead of concrete, and breathe clean air. Without the trees, creeks, fields and creatures, this state and indeed this world would be a lonely place.

The coyote, being a creature of nature, has as much right to be here as every man has. He takes only what he needs for survival, never kills for pleasure, eats only as much as he is hungry for, and cares for his mate and pups. Man would do well to take a lesson from his life style. The coyote does his part also in bringing peace and beauty to quiet evenings, when he sends his yelps heavenward. He seems to cry for a time when the buffalo and the Indian roamed this land free.

For a few dollars bounty, men forego all semblance of fair play and good sportsmanship. They hunt him by helicopter and snowmobile, in packs. Yet the men who support his slaughter would call the coyote blood-thirsty. They excuse their acts of heartless killing by accusing this small prairie folk of being a menace to their herds and flocks, when in reality much loss of cattle, sheep and chickens is caused by stray dogs or by man's own negligence. The coyote simply has the misfortune of resembling his domesticated friend.

As never before, people must learn to behold the creatures of nature as precious. The buffalo is all but gone, the hawk and eagle are fewer and fewer, and in much of the world, the sounds of gunfire have become more familiar than the songs of the birds.

Let us treasure our gifts and learn from our past mistakes. It is my hope that the Legislature of this beautiful state will not sentence the coyote to extinction. The death song sung for the lowliest of His creatures is a requiem for all men.

A Tip Of The Hat

Dawson County Extension Agent Harold Stevens was inducted into the Animal Science Hall of Fame at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Friday when he was also named the 1975 Block and Bridle Honoree. The student organization presents the award each year to an individual who has made outstanding contributions to the livestock industry.

This year's choice was outstanding by any standard.

We couldn't begin to recount all of Stevens' constructive activities and accomplishments during his career as an extension educator.

We should mention, though, that his 4-H judging teams have won so consistently at state and national contests that some newspapers claim they will print stories about his teams only if they lose — then it is news.

In addition, Stevens has helped to make his county a leader in livestock production, in feedlot modernization with pollution control systems, in alfalfa production and swine production. Sheep production has not been neglected either.

His leadership has extended particularly to youth . . . in insisting that kids learn by doing rather than having adults do it for them.

Stevens is known to be outspoken, sometimes abrasive, but also as an enthusiastic sort who works unlimited hours for Dawson County folks and who, in the words of one observer, "is a combination farm expert, chamber of commerce, community leader and internationalist involved in people to people trips of all kinds."

If imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, there is a good chance Stevens should feel flattered. His county livestock tours are so well recognized that farmers from many other counties attend regularly to see some of the latest techniques he has introduced.

Hats off to Harold Stevens, 1975 Block and Bridle Honoree!

Citizen involvement was solicited through a series of video town meetings over ETC, as well as opportunities for participation in all Goals and Policies Committee meetings. The results of Goals and Policies have been continually updated and refined.

One of the goals recognized that growth should occur in an orderly manner, utilizing existing city services and facilities. It was felt that this could best be accomplished by first promoting growth in the north, south and west where these facilities exist.

Although the League of Women Voters has not endorsed the Goals and Policies Report, we do support a concept of balanced growth in order to maintain the downtown. We are also in agreement with a policy which promotes broad citizen involvement in the planning process.

It has been stated that there are certain barriers to growth to the west. This cannot be disputed. However, land development does not include only living units. Land can also be utilized for such things as parks and industrial sites.

Whichever way we grow affects the entire citizenry. In order to meet community needs, involvement of citizens from all segments of the population in the planning process needs to be encouraged.

Defense Of The Coyote

Valparaiso, Neb.
Nebraska is a state familiar with nature. It is one of few states where only a short distance from urban life one can see grass instead of concrete, and breathe clean air. Without the trees, creeks, fields and creatures, this state and indeed this world would be a lonely place.

The coyote, being a creature of nature, has as much right to be here as every man has. He takes only what he needs for survival, never kills for pleasure, eats only as much as he is hungry for, and cares for his mate and pups. Man would do well to take a lesson from his life style. The coyote does his part also in bringing peace and beauty to quiet evenings, when he sends his yelps heavenward. He seems to cry for a time when the buffalo and the Indian roamed this land free.

For a few dollars bounty, men forego all semblance of fair play and good sportsmanship. They hunt him by helicopter and snowmobile, in packs. Yet the men who support his slaughter would call the coyote blood-thirsty. They excuse their acts of heartless killing by accusing this small prairie wolf of being a menace to their herds and flocks, when in reality much loss of cattle, sheep and chickens is caused by stray dogs or by man's own negligence. The coyote simply has the misfortune of resembling his domesticated friend.

As never before, people must learn to behold the creatures of nature as precious. The buffalo is all but gone, the hawk and eagle are fewer and fewer, and in much of the world, the sounds of gunfire have become more familiar than the songs of the birds.

Let us treasure our gifts and learn from our past mistakes. It is my hope that the Legislature of this beautiful state will not sentence the coyote to extinction. The death song sung for the lowliest of His creatures is a requiem for all men.

Sexual Assault Bill

Lincoln, Neb.
The Lincoln Chapter of the National Organization for Women commend and thank the Nebraska senators for their votes in passing LB 23, the Sexual Assault Bill.

This positive action by our Legislature will hopefully encourage more states to join Nebraska in clarifying and correcting the injustices of existing laws concerning sexual assault.

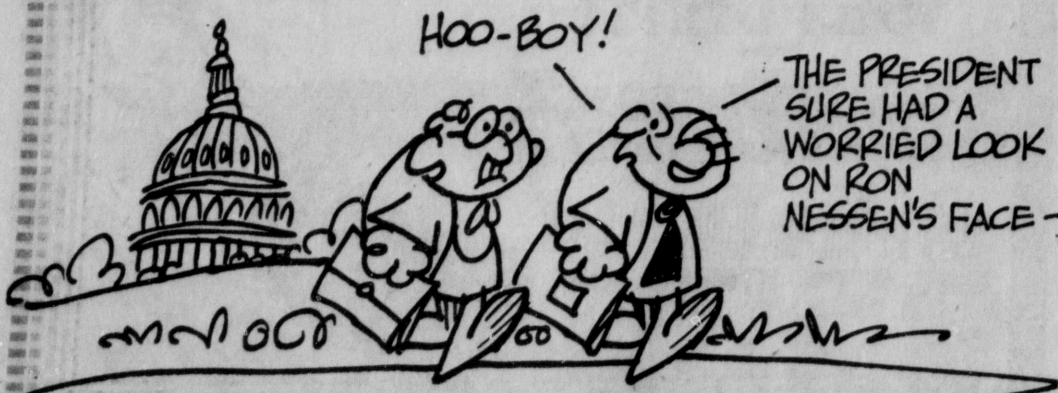

Thanks to the many groups and individuals who worked so hard in supporting the passage of LB 23. This united effort of concerned people will also be needed to see that the law is enforced.

Style More Than Issues Separates Candidates

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

The year 1975 may go down as the year Lincolnites put their first woman mayor into the driver's seat. Or it may mark the first time a full-time incumbent is elected to a third term of office.

The year 1975 may also receive the dubious distinction of being the year in which personal attacks, instead of issues, played a flamboyant role in the campaign.

At stake is whether Helep Boosalis, who has seen 16 years of council service, or Sam Schwartzkopf, an eight-year incumbent, will be at the helm of the city during the next four years.

The city election Tuesday will be the peoples' answer to that question.

The difference between Schwartzkopf and Mrs. Boosalis is seen not so much in their stance on wide-range of issues, but on what many perceive as their style, approach and responsiveness to the public.

Agree On Growth, Zoning
The candidates agree more than they disagree on such major issues as the direction city growth should take, on zoning questions, and support for downtown and community redevelopment programs and services.

Since both Mrs. Boosalis, 55, and Schwartzkopf, 59, tend to weigh in at the moderate point on the political scale, the dominate issue of the race has centered on leadership — which one can exert the best type of leadership Lincolnites want.

Mrs. Boosalis, as the challenger, thinks she can provide the type of dynamic stewardship which she says has been lacking at the top. In her campaign, she has stressed that the City Council has been forced to fill a leadership vacuum created by Schwartzkopf.

Schwartzkopf, as the incumbent, says leadership always is used in an attempt to topple an officeholder. Nevertheless, he has been criticizing the council president for exerting what he has called weak leadership on the lawmaking body.

Schwartzkopf, who trailed Mrs. Boosalis in the primary election by 13% of the vote, has vowed to wage a strong battle to retain his job.

Election Report

New Level
This week the rhetoric of the campaign stepped up — or, some think, stepped down — to a new level as the mayor's campaign took a more personal approach in attacks against Mrs. Boosalis.

An advertising blitz took the form of "dear Helen" letters. Some of the newspaper ads, paid for by the mayor's reelection committee, contained half-truths, some questioned Mrs. Boosalis' motives, another attempted to label her as a dangerous liberal.

Schwartzkopf defended the use of that type of anti-Boosalis tactics in his campaign.

Said 'Only Way'
The mayor told The Star that his campaign committee "felt this was the only way to get our message across" since his press releases printed by the Star and Lincoln Journal have been "distorted" by reporters.

The mayor, smarting from both newspapers' editorial endorsement of the council president, apparently feels he won't receive a fair shake in the press.

Responding to one particular ad purporting to show the dangers of council candidate Steve Tiwald and Mrs. Boosalis, Schwartzkopf said it "slipped through." He later said he personally authorized each advertisement.

No Response Planned
Mrs. Boosalis says she doesn't plan to respond blow-by-blow to the opposition's attacks. Reportedly, she will counter with ads stressing that she has run a "clean" issue-oriented campaign.

Schwartzkopf, who has taken in more money and spent more, also has paid for several half-hour television shows. One program attempts to warn voters that "no-growth" policies and permissive law enforcement will result if "ultra-liberals" are elected to office Tuesday.

Many of Boosalis' workers deplore what they call "gutter politics" and a highly placed city official said Schwartzkopf told him: "The campaign is going to get dirty."

Positions Outlined
While leadership, and now campaign tactics, have tended to be the major issues, both candidates have been outlining their positions on a variety of subjects.

Both favor orderly growth to the north, west and south before expansion into the Stevens Creek watershed.

Both have proposed screening committees be set up to rate the applicants for police chief.

Both have said they want to pick the "best man for the job." Where the candidates differ is in their assessment of who is that "best man" and, underlying that, their differing philosophies on law enforcement.

Schwartzkopf is seen as a man who wants a "tough cop" type to head up the department, while Mrs. Boosalis tends to want a chief who is also more sensitive to the public.

Corrections Unit Favored
Both propose the creation of a department of corrections, favor city-county consolidation and numerous redevelopment programs.

Although the office is non-partisan, party politics surfaced to some degree in the primary campaign.

Mrs. Boosalis, not Schwartzkopf, was endorsed by the Lancaster County Democratic Party.

Schwartzkopf attributed her 13% lead in the primary to the aid of party workers who hit the streets for the council president more than they did for him.

Endorsements Given
While members of both political parties are aligned on both sides, Mrs. Boosalis received the endorsement of the Central Labor Union. The Union represents all AFL-CIO locals and some 8,000 workers.

Schwartzkopf, meanwhile, has gained the backing of five former councilmen. They are builder and ex-mayoral contender Erv Peterson, businessman Carroll Thompson, former police legal advisor John Comstock, retired telephone executive Merle Hale and attorney Dick Hartsock.

While the popular council president has relied heavily on volunteer workers, Schwartzkopf's reelection commission has hired telephoners to urge citizens to vote for him.

As the campaign draws to a close, both candidates are working double-time to meet and greet as many people as possible.

After Tuesday, one of them will have the time to take up all the hobbies pitched aside during the years of public service.

Ed Dept. 'Rule 51' Is Signed

Gov. J. James Exon Friday signed "Rule 51" governing the development of reimbursable local special education programs for handicapped children.

"The State Department of Education will deliver the rule to the secretary of state's office to be filed," Education Commissioner Anne Campbell said.

The State Board of Education on April 16 approved Rule 51, subject to approval by the Nebraska attorney general and the governor. The rule is part of the Education Department's request to implement LB403, Nebraska's special education law.

Dr. Campbell said the State Board of Education agreed informally in a conference telephone call to "additional clarification in language" in Rule 51, which Exon requested and the attorney general approved.

"The items clarified relate to reimbursable costs for diagnosis of handicapped children," Dr. Campbell said.

The rule now states that in determining handicaps and prescribing education needs, state reimbursement will be allowed only for services after a child's handicapping condition is verified and the child is placed in a special education program, she said.

The rule — approved following a heavily attended hearing last month, suggestions from which revisions were made — is designed to prevent discrepancies such as those discovered late last year in the Education Department's operation of LB403.

Under the 1973 law, the state pays local school districts 90% of their special education program costs that exceed the cost for their regular school programs.

LB403 had been administered and state reimbursements sent to local school districts for their required special education programs where necessary, but all under conflicting, illegal, unclear and unofficial Education Department guidelines.

Rule 51 defines terms used in LB403 special education programs, their establishment and administration, overall responsibility, identification of handicapped children, verification of their conditions and diagnostic data, placement review, special education personnel qualifications, and local district budget requirements.

Dr. Campbell said some language in Rule 51 relating to handicapped children with speech defects was also clarified. "The Department of Education will be advising local school districts about the changes, and will assist school personnel by providing correct information in a series of meetings to be held across the state next week," she said.

The State Board of Education will formally adopt the clarifications to the already approved Rule 51, at its meeting Friday in Lincoln, she said.

Poindexter Contends Right To Unbiased Trial Violated

Edward Poindexter argued the constitutionality of his arrest and trial for the slaying of an Omaha policeman for more than three hours Friday before U.S. District Judge Warren K. Urbom.

Poindexter was sentenced to life imprisonment along with David Rice for the 1970 booby-trap slaying of officer Larry Minard. The 30-year-old Omaha native contended that his right to a fair trial had been violated and that he was tried for his political beliefs.

Black activist Angela Davis was among about 60 spectators who packed the U.S. District Courtroom.

Separate Trial
Poindexter and Rice were tried together and convicted in the Minard slaying. Poindexter argued Friday that he should have been tried separately.

Rice's conviction has been overturned by Urbom, who ruled that evidence obtained in a police search of the Rice home violated the Fourth Amendment prohibition against unreasonable search and seizure. Urbom ruled that Rice should either be retried without "tainted" evidence gathered in the search or released.

The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has upheld that ruling and the state has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to review the case.

Speaking with reporters briefly on the Federal Building steps, Miss Davis said there are some people who believe Rice's conviction was overturned on a technicality.

'Not A Technicality'
"I happen to believe that due process is not a technicality," she said. "It's a fundamental right."

Miss Davis spoke in Omaha Thursday night at a fund-raising program for Poindexter and Rice.

Much of Friday's hearing centered on Poindexter's attorney's contention that Poindexter often stayed at the Rice home, kept some of his belongings there and came and went freely. Therefore, attorney Alan Saltzman said, Poindexter's Fourth Amendment rights were also violated in the police search.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Mel Kammerlohr argued that Saltzman was stretching the Fourth Amendment beyond the current bounds of the law.

No Earlier Protest
The state contends Poindexter lost the right to contest the search because he failed to show any legal interest in the matter at the state court level.

Saltzman also argued that Poindexter was arrested illegally and that the police search of his clothing after they no longer had probable cause to detain him was unconstitutional. Police said they found chemicals contained in dynamite in Poindexter's shirt.

Kammerlohr said police don't need evidence "beyond a reasonable doubt, or enough evidence to convict," in order to make an arrest.

Remark By Peak

Saltzman said Poindexter's arrest stemmed largely from a remark by Duane Peak, the state's principal witness, who said if anyone in the National Committee to Combat Racism (NCCR) knew how to make a bomb, it was Poindexter. At the time Poindexter was president of the NCCR and prior to that with the Black Panther Party.

Poindexter said Peak changed his story three or four times before implicating Rice and Poindexter. Peak had even been threatened with death in the electric chair, Poindexter said.

Peak, who admitted setting the bomb trap that killed Minard, was convicted of juvenile delinquency and has since been moved to another state for his own protection. Some say he is living with relatives.

Secretary Found Innocent

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Hebron — Deliberating less than two minutes, a most astute Thayer County jury has found a pretty blonde secretary innocent of charges that she knocked off her millionaire boss.

The verdict came Thursday night. But alas, poor Bev Sandman must face two other juries in the next two nights.

Any or all could still rule that the young lady should try.

This reporter knows the first jury was astute because he was tabbed to serve on it. He also knows the trial wasn't for real, though it did take place in a bona fide district courtroom.

"The Night of January 16th" is entirely a trial-play, so what better place for its staging than a 60-year-old courthouse? Authentic oak panels, an authentic gavel to bang, authentically hard benches seating up to 90 spectators...

And if some of the juries are unduly swayed by prosecutor Joe Murray, let the records show authenticity there as well. He's a real-life attorney in neighboring Deshler.

The 22-member cast also boasts an honest-to-goodness district judge, Bill Coady of Hebron, though hardly in his conventional role. Right there in his very own courtroom, the judge takes the witness stand as a Mafia-type mobster.

Two other gen-u-ine Hebron attorneys, Duane L. Hubbard and Dave Cording, participate as a court reporter and assistant play director, respectively.

"The production has an unusual twist in that an actor's characterization can actually sway the spectators who serve as a jury," said Rex Hacker, who ordinarily directs funerals rather than plays. "And verdicts may differ because of individual feelings. Some jury members, for instance, may be influenced because the accused calls herself an atheist."

The courtroom staging is a major departure even for an adventuresome community theatrical troupe now in its 16th year. A quaint onetime Episcopal church is the customary setting for the four plays presented annually by the sponsoring Thayer County Community Theatre.

The director of the past several plays, Mrs. Molly Lange, is currently doing graduate dramatics work at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. She is also president of the Thayer County group.

One of the local performers' one-act plays, incidentally, took runnerup honors last month in state competition of the Nebraska Assn. of Community Theatres.

Another key role in the four-night drama is admirably filled by local English teacher Diana Norder, portraying the defense attorney. Other cast members are Jim Paulson, Jewell Salzman, Sheila Krueger, Dick Boylston, Brad Elting, Vickie Aznoe, Mary Tipton, Chuck Hinze, Peggy Smith, Les Wulf, Doria L'Heureux, Hugh Clark, Larry Hiller, Greg Wiedel, W. Don McIntyre, Kathy Christiansen and Jan Hinze. Virginia Ramsbottom is assistant director along with Cording.

As first-night jury foreman, by the way, this reporter would report additionally that his chosen 12 voted with absolute, total and complete impartiality. The poll was 12-0, first time around.

True, jury member Mrs. Bernice Dorman of Hebron happened to mention that the accused Bev would soon become her daughter-in-law. But that was of no influence whatsoever.

Honest, judge, no influence whatsoever. We solemnly swear???

Fire Damages Kiewit Building

Omaha (AP) — A portion of the Kiewit Plaza building was extensively damaged Friday by a spectacular fire that Chief Vernon Van Scoy described as just like the movie, "Towering Inferno."

No one was hurt, though the blaze burned out of control for 45 minutes before being contained. Firemen said the Cloud Room lounge on the top floor of the 16-story building was the center of the blaze.

Officials said the lounge was left "a charred mess." Residents of penthouse apartments immediately below the area of the fire escaped, some of them by elevators in the building.

Peter Kiewit, chairman of the Peter Kiewit Sons Co., who lives in one of the penthouses was out of the city.

Van Scoy said, "If the fire had been at a lower level, it would have gone up the elevator shafts."

Mrs. Clarence Landen, occupant of a penthouse with her husband, Clarence, first smelled smoke and called a security guard. It was not known who turned in the first of four alarms.

Landen described the fire as "just like a tornado." He said his apartment was "so full of smoke, you can't even walk through it you can't see" at the height of the blaze.

Building engineer Louis El-sasser said as soon as the alarm was sounded, he shut off all air handling units so the blaze would not spread. He then helped residents out of their apartments.

El-sasser said he had to knock down the penthouse door of Mrs. Jess Lee to rescue her.

Battalion Chief George Giddings said the Cloud Room was completely burned out.

The cause of the blaze was not determined immediately and there was no estimate of the damage. A party had been held earlier in the Cloud Room, but the lounge was closed at the time of the blaze.

The Kiewit building, completed in 1961, primarily houses offices, including the Kiewit firm and several other national concerns.

1,700 Expected At $50-A-Plate Demos' Dinner

About 1,700 persons are expected to gather at Pershing Auditorium Saturday night for the Democratic Party's annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner celebration.

Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia will be the featured speaker at the $50-a-plate event. Proceeds from the dinner will fund Democratic programs during the coming months.

A pre-dinner reception at the Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel at 5:30 p.m. precedes the 7 p.m. dinner at the auditorium.

Gov. J. James Exon and Lt. Gov. Gerald Wlehan will head the list of Democratic officials attending the affair.

Nebraska Reaction To Ford Farm Bill Veto Mixed

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

President Ford's veto of the farm bill brought mixed reactions from farm leaders in Nebraska.

Elton Berck, retired president of the Nebraska Farmers Union, described the veto as "a disaster because it takes away the bargaining power from our U.S. representatives engaged in foreign trade negotiations when they need it most."

"A veto of the bill represents a betrayal of U.S. food producers at the very time when food products are in high demand and the maintenance of balance of foreign trade is vital to our economic recovery," he added.

Berck noted that food production is one area where the U.S. still has some prestige and that "this endangers our prestige in that area."

The Nebraska Farm Bureau issued a statement supporting the veto. The organization also praised the President's statement calling for removal of export restrictions on crops.

"Our farm products must have unfettered access to world markets. Without these outside markets the American consumer will pay more for food either directly or indirectly through taxes and costly farm programs," the statement said.

"Only when we have the American food machine running at near capacity can efficient production assure reasonable food prices. The act would have seriously hampered this highly tuned and efficient machine," the statement said.

Ron Holsteen, president of the Nebraska Agricultural Council, said: "I hope there is some chance of override on the veto but I doubt there is. People back there in Washington have no concept of what farmers problems are," he said.

Holsteen declined to predict what farmers might do in the way of crop cutbacks. "They are all in the field today so I imagine their major concern is getting in the crops before the next rain."

Elmer Block, who farms and owns an elevator at Roca, said: "The President did the right thing. Farm bills are good for elevators but bad for farmers and for the country."

Block predicted that about 20% of farmers will cut back on production. He said fertilizer sales are down this spring. "I would say we are getting about 70% of our normal fertilizer orders. I don't know what that will do to production. The weather is going to be the important factor," he said.

Louis Wiebe, president of the Nebraska Farmers Union, predicted that if the present bill is not passed over a veto, another attempt to get a bill will be made.

State's Congressional Delegation Disappointed

Omaha (AP) — Nebraska's all-Republican congressional delegation voiced opposition and disappointment Friday after President Ford vetoed the recently passed 1975 Farm Bill.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, who urged Ford to sign the bill, said, "I'm going to devote my attention to see what else he (Ford) might do that would bring some actual benefit to Nebraska agriculture."

Curtis, a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said he feels the bill would have had no impact on livestock prices in Nebraska.

The senator said he believes the bill can be rewritten to satisfy the President. He did not say whether he would vote to override the veto, but said he does not think House leaders will make a try at an override.

Sen. Roman Hruska, who voted for the bill, was not available for comment.

Second District Rep. John Y. McCollister said, "I disagree with the President, and I'm going to vote to override."

However, McCollister said he does not think an override attempt will be successful.

The Omaha lawmaker said he feels the administration's main concerns in the bill were over cotton and milk prices "and that doesn't affect my state of Nebraska at all."

McCollister called the floor

prices in the bill "modest." First District Rep. Charles Thone of Lincoln said, "I opposed the veto. I firmly feel that the administration is being shortsighted."

"The administration feels that in the short range some money be saved by the veto — in the long range, however, every American will pay more for his food because we don't have a new farm bill," Thone added.

Thone said he feels the proposed target prices in the bill are "realistic," and would have helped in seeking the administration's goal of all-out agricultural production.

A spokesman for Thone said the congressman will vote to override the veto if the issue is brought before the House.

Third District Rep. Virginia Smith of Chappell was en route back to Nebraska Friday morning, and not immediately available for comment.

"The problem is that it will come too late to help farmers. They have to know now what is going to happen as they are making planting decisions today. The veto is sure bad news for farmers," he said.

Wiebe agreed that the weather will be more important than farmers' decisions to cut back production. "If this late spring holds down production we might not have a price disaster but we sure could have one if we get a good crop everywhere this fall," he added.

2,692 Nebraskans Said Underpaid By $667,267

Omaha (AP) — The U.S. Labor Department's Employment Standards Administration reports that 2,692 Nebraskans were underpaid $667,267 by their employers in the nine months beginning July 1, 1974.

Frank Gerlach, area director of the administration's Wage-Hour Division, said $285,910 of that amount was paid of 2,033 Nebraskans.

He said the difference in the amounts of back pay found due and that restored is represented partly by cases still in the courts, and much of it is uncollectible for various reasons, including insolvency of employers.

He said legislation passed last year gives the department the right to sue for double the back wages due. He said several such suits have been filed.

Gerlach said unpaid overtime in the amount of $161,437 was restored to 1,062 workers, while 970 got $65,677 they had coming under the minimum wage portion of the Fair Labor Standards Act. He said another $38,556 was restored to 112 persons, most of them women, under the Equal Pay Act which requires equal pay for substantially equal work, regardless of sex.

Compliance officers found 18 instances of violation of age discrimination legislation and 202 young persons illegally employed under child labor laws.

A native of Abilene, Kan., Reitz was graduated from the Law Enforcement Training Center at Grand Island in 1971.

Insurance Agents Install Mountford

Omaha (AP) — William Mountford of Red Cloud was installed Friday as president of the Nebraska Association of Mutual Insurance Agents. He succeeds Wayne Bowman of Omaha. Other new officers include Richard Meyer of Lincoln, first vice president; Loren Solberg of Alliance, second vice president; and H.J. Burnham of North Bend, secretary-treasurer. Meyer was named "Mutual Agent of the Year," the highest award the association gives an agent. Russell E. Reed of Omaha was cited as "Fieldman of the Year."

Chautauqua Revival Given Grant

North Platte (UPI) — The Nebraska Committee for the Humanities Friday awarded its largest grant ever — $36,000 — to the University of Nebraska and six Nebraska communities for development of a project called "revival of the tent chautauqua." The chautauqua will open May 30 in Chadron and will tour Scottsbluff, Gering, McCook, Hastings and Norfolk before closing June 10 in Nebraska City.

Three Named Postmasters

Chicago (AP) — Three Nebraskans were among 61 new postmaster appointees in the 13-state Central Region, Clarence B. Gels, regional postmaster general, announced Friday. They were identified as Edward W. Maguire of Lexington, Louis M. Stubbs of Boelus and Helen B. Chaulk of Angola.

Halsey To Host Range Youth Camp

North Platte (UPI) — The annual Nebraska range youth camp will be held at the state 4-H facility near Halsey June 16-20. Kenneth Noonan, range camp director from North Platte, said persons ages 14 to 18 are eligible to attend and added that May 17 is the sign-up deadline. Noonan said the camp's purpose is to develop leadership and to recognize and give advanced training to young people who are interested in rangeland and practical range management.

Flames Damage Hershey Lumber Yard

Hershey (UPI) — Units from Sutherland and North Platte were called in early Friday to help Hershey volunteers battle a fire at the Home Lumber Co. According to reports, the fire was contained in the main office structure, which included some storage. The yard is owned by Virgil Jorgenson. No damage estimates were immediately available, but a deputy state fire marshal, George Cheney of Ogallala, was investigating the cause.

Piano Crushes Toddler's Skull

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha toddler's skull was crushed by a piano Friday.

Police said William Petty took his 20-month-old son Gabriel along when he went to his mother's house to work on her piano.

The father propped the piano up to fix it, and the youngster apparently bumped into it, causing it to fall on him.

Gabriel was pronounced dead on arrival at a local hospital.

Thundershowers Pour Inch On Beaver Crossing

Thundershowers, heavy at times, moved through Nebraska Friday leaving up to one inch of rainfall at Beaver Crossing.

Lincoln's moisture totaled .59 of an inch, while Norfolk received .23, Omaha .17, Alliance .06 and Grand Island .05.

Ammonia Line Ruptures

Ayr (AP) — Two persons were sent to a Hastings hospital Friday afternoon when a loading line to a 12,000-gallon anhydrous ammonia tank at the Ayr Grain Co. ruptured.

Officials said a truck pulling away from the line prematurely caused the break.

It took firemen from three cities, Hastings, Blue Hill and Ayr, more than an hour to shut off the line.

An Adams County deputy sheriff and a housewife were overcome by the noxious fumes, and were taken to a Hastings hospital as a precautionary measure. Neither was believed to be serious.

Warmer and sunny weather is expected for the weekend with highs in the upper 80s to the low 70s Saturday. Highs in the 70s are predicted for the entire state Sunday. There's no mention of moisture in the forecasts.

Paid for by Baker for Council Committee, Ellis Dunn, 1930 East Barnum Drive, Treasurer.

Dear Mrs. Boosalis:

I wonder how much of a change for the better Lincoln can get from a person who has already been on the city council for sixteen years. You started even before we had a full time mayor. Surely if you were going to begin making things so much better, you could have started before now. Lincoln has made definite progress under Schwartzkopf...and now you tell us we need to change. Well, if sixteen years isn't long enough to prove your point, I don't know what we can expect in another four.

Omaha (AP) — Nebraska's all-Republican congressional delegation voiced opposition and disappointment Friday after President Ford vetoed the recently passed 1975 Farm Bill.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, who urged Ford to sign the bill, said, "I'm going to devote my attention to see what else he (Ford) might do that would bring some actual benefit to Nebraska agriculture."

Curtis, a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said he feels the bill would have had no impact on livestock prices in Nebraska.

The senator said he believes the bill can be rewritten to satisfy the President. He did not say whether he would vote to override the veto, but said he does not think House leaders will make a try at an override.

Sen. Roman Hruska, who voted for the bill, was not available for comment.

Second District Rep. John Y. McCollister said, "I disagree with the President, and I'm going to vote to override."

However, McCollister said he does not think an override attempt will be successful.

The Omaha lawmaker said he feels the administration's main concerns in the bill were over cotton and milk prices "and that doesn't affect my state of Nebraska at all."

McCollister called the floor

prices in the bill "modest." First District Rep. Charles Thone of Lincoln said, "I opposed the veto. I firmly feel that the administration is being shortsighted."

"The administration feels that in the short range some money be saved by the veto — in the long range, however, every American will pay more for his food because we don't have a new farm bill," Thone added. Thone said he feels the proposed target prices in the bill are "realistic," and would have helped in seeking the administration's goal of all-out agricultural production.

A spokesman for Thone said the congressman will vote to override the veto if the issue is brought before the House.

Third District Rep. Virginia Smith of Chappell was en route back to Nebraska Friday morning, and not immediately available for comment.

"The problem is that it will come too late to help farmers. They have to know now what is going to happen as they are making planting decisions today. The veto is sure bad news for farmers," he said.

Wiebe agreed that the weather will be more important than farmers' decisions to cut back production. "If this late spring holds down production we might not have a price disaster but we sure could have one if we get a good crop everywhere this fall," he added.

2,692 Nebraskans Said Underpaid By $667,267

Omaha (AP) — The U.S. Labor Department's Employment Standards Administration reports that 2,692 Nebraskans were underpaid $667,267 by their employers in the nine months beginning July 1, 1974.

Frank Gerlach, area director of the administration's Wage-Hour Division, said $285,910 of that amount was paid of 2,033 Nebraskans.

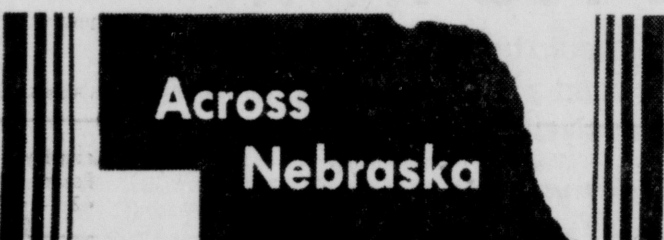

He said the difference in the amounts of back pay found due and that restored is represented partly by cases still in the courts, and much of it is uncollectible for various reasons, including insolvency of employers.

He said legislation passed last year gives the department the right to sue for double the back wages due. He said several such suits have been filed.

Gerlach said unpaid overtime in the amount of $161,437 was restored to 1,062 workers, while 970 got $65,877 they had coming under the minimum wage portion of the Fair Labor Standards Act. He said another $38,556 was restored to 112 persons, most of them women, under the Equal Pay Act which requires equal pay for substantially equal work, regardless of sex.

Compliance officers found 18 instances of violation of age discrimination legislation and 202 young persons illegally employed under child labor laws.

Noonan said the camp's purpose is to develop leadership and to recognize and give advanced training to young people who are interested in rangeland and practical range management.

Flames Damage Hershey Lumber Yard

Hershey (UPI) — Units from Sutherland and North Platte were called in early Friday to help Hershey volunteers battle a fire at the Home Lumber Co. According to reports, the fire was contained in the main office structure, which included some storage. The yard is owned by Virgil Jorgenson. No damage estimates were immediately available, but a deputy state fire marshal, George Cheney of Ogallala, was investigating the cause.

Piano Crushes Toddler's Skull

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha toddler's skull was crushed by a piano Friday.

Police said William Petty took his 20-month-old son Gabriel along when he went to his mother's house to work on her piano.

The father propped the piano up to fix it, and the youngster apparently bumped into it, causing it to fall on him.

Gabriel was pronounced dead on arrival at a local hospital.

CITY COUNCIL
Paid for by Baker for Council Committee Ellis Dan, 1930 East Bermuda Drive, Treasurer.

Dear Mrs. Boosalis:

I wonder how much of a change for the better Lincoln can get from a person who has already been on the city council for sixteen years. You started even before we had a full time mayor. Surely if you were going to begin making things so much better, you could have started before now. Lincoln has made definite progress under Schwartzkopf... and now you tell us we need to change. Well, if sixteen years isn't long enough to prove your point, I don't know what we can expect in another four.

AVAILABILITY OF DRAFT COUNTY PLANNING STUDY REPORT TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Notice is hereby given that Lancaster County has completed the Draft County Planning Study Report for the replacement of certain critical bridges on the County road system. The replacement bridges are:

C 55-Stream crossing on the north line of Section 13 T12N R8E 6th P.M.
C 55-Stream crossing on the east line of Section 13 T12N R8E 6th P.M.

These reports as required by the County Planning Study Report to Nebraska's Action Plan contain certain data needed for a study of a highway project prior to the start of the planning period. Since not all highway improvements are of the same magnitude nor will they have similar economic, social and environmental effects, a project level will be assigned to each project to indicate the complexity of the project and the detail of the required study procedure. All of the above listed projects have been tentatively classified as Non Major and Level 1.

Such classification indicates a minimum degree of study and does not require an Environmental Impact Statement or a Negative Declaration.

Copies of these reports have been sent to agencies and local officials having an interest in the projects. The reports are available for public inspection at the office of the Lancaster County Engineer, County City Building, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Comments relative to the report may be submitted to the above address until May 30, 1975. Following that date, all comments received will be reviewed and the Final Planning Study Report will be prepared.

PUBLIC NOTICES

PUBLIC NOTICE
AVAILABILITY OF DRAFT COUNTY PLANNING STUDY REPORT TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
Notice is hereby given that Lancaster County has completed the Draft County Planning Study Reports for the replacement of certain critical bridges on the County road system. The replacement bridges are:
C-55-Stream crossing on the north line of Section 13, T12N, R8E, 6th P.M.
C-55-7-Stream crossing on the east line of Section 13, T12N, R8E, 6th P.M.
These reports, as required by the County Compliance Addendum to Nebraska's Action Plan, contain certain data needed for a study of a highway project prior to the start of the planning period. Since not all highway improvements are of the same magnitude, nor will they have similar economic, social and environmental effects, a project level will be assigned to each project to indicate the complexity of the project and the detail of the required study procedures. All of the above listed projects have been tentatively classified as "Non-Major" and "Level H." Such classification indicates a minimum degree of study and does not require an Environmental Impact Statement or a Negative Declaration.
Copies of these reports have been sent to agencies and local officials having an interest in the projects. The reports are available for public inspection at the office of the Lancaster County Engineer, County-City Building, Lincoln, Nebraska. Comments relative to the reports may be submitted to the above address until May 30, 1975. Following that date, all comments received will be reviewed and the Final Planning Study Reports will be prepared.

The hill spreads out in front of them, stretching up and up; they can't see over the top. There may be clouds in the distance; but just now they are oblivious to them. They are together, and for the moment, that is all that matters.

Together, the mood, the romance it evokes, are a part of life. But so is that uphill winding road. Traveling through life, you often can't see over the top. You can only give each step along the way the best that is in you.

Fortunately, this is a journey that none of us has to make alone. Your Creator is reaching out to you and the doors of His Church are forever open. If you haven't passed through those doors for a long time, or if you have never passed through them at all, give it a try next Sunday! You will not be alone, and a new perspective may be yours.

Bank, Store Consider Tunnel Beneath O St.

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Lincolinites may be able to cross O St. at 13th without getting rained on, snowed on or nearly run down by motorists.

Officials of both the National Bank of Commerce and Miller & Paine are considering the construction of an underground tunnel connecting the blocks north and south of O St.

Paul Amen of NBC told fellow Downtown Advisory Committee members Friday that architect Pat Darling will meet with Public Works Director Bob Obering to go over preliminary design plans.

DAC already has endorsed the tunnel concept connecting the new bank and the department store. That's because bank officials have ruled out the construction of a second level skywalk connecting the institution to neighboring buildings because of the bank's design.

While private businesses would assume most of the construction costs, Amen suggested the city might foot the bill for relocating a 54-inch storm sewer and another utility line as the government's contribution to the project.

DAC member John Campbell, president of Miller & Paine, is enthusiastic about the tunnel. But he urged officials to move rapidly on the project so that the tunnel could be constructed before O St. is repaved. Otherwise, the newly paved street would have to be ripped up — something Campbell especially is against.

Although no cost estimates were available, Amen said it is cheaper to go underground than to build a skywalk.

Since DAC members don't want a concrete tube connecting the two blocks, members suggested the city consider leasing space in the tunnel to vendors and retailers.

The tunnel system, considered a possibility to link other downtown blocks, is part of DAC's overall pedestrian system. Tunnels would complement, not be a substitute for, skywalks.

In designing tunnels, DAC proposed that developers consider running utility lines through the space, consider space for offices and shops and take into consideration making provisions so that handicapped people can use both tunnels and skywalks.

Does Your Dog Need Shades?

If your dog needs a powder pink granny gown trimmed in lace or a saucy peek-a-boo coat, Du-Say's of New Orleans has it. The doggie gifts include eye shadow, see-through vinyl coats, santa suits, bunny hats — even Jewish yarmulkes, white with the Star of David in blue. For St. Bernards, there are authentic oak brandy kegs with spigot and brass hardware. The man selling these unique dog and cat furnishings in his shop and by mail order in the United States, Europe, Asia, Australia and Latin America, is Richard Dusse, shown holding his dog "Pooch," who is sporting a jaunty hat and shades.

USDA Beef Grade Trial To Go On As Scheduled

Omaha (AP) — A motion to extend the mandated time limit for a decision in a suit to permanently enjoin the U.S. Department of Agriculture from implementing its new beef grading standards was rejected Friday by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis.

On a request by the Independent Meat Packers Association of Omaha, U.S. District Judge Robert V. Denney of Omaha issues a preliminary injunction preventing the new guidelines from going into effect as planned, April 14.

A three-judge panel of the Circuit Court upheld, but altered Denney's order April 15, remanding the case to Denney for trial and decision within 45 days.

OPPD Director Asks Board To Probe Charges

Omaha (AP) — A director of the Omaha Public Power District has asked the board to investigate charges dealing with environmental studies and with questions about the district's policies on selling scrap metal.

Mrs. Rosemary Skrupa said "the charges of possible suppression of critical ecological evidence and conflict between the OPPD and the engineering firm it hired could have enormous effects on the lives and purses of our ratepayers and must be resolved."

In letters to OPPD General Manager Ralph Shaw and OPPD President Richard Dugdale, Mrs. Skrupa referred to allegations that OPPD has been selling scrap copper without competitive bidding, possibly costing the district added revenues.

The issues were raised in stories in the Sun Newspapers.

Mrs. Skrupa's reference to ecological evidence stems from charges made by a former employee of Gibbs, Hill, Durham and Richardson Inc., a firm conducting environmental studies at the proposed OPPD Nebraska City plant.

Robert Ziegler, who has a master's degree in biology from the University of Nebraska at Omaha, said OPPD and the engineering firm had deleted and revised scientific findings. Ziegler was hired in November of 1974 and resigned March 14.

He also said he objected to OPPD, a client, co-authoring what he said should be an objective report on effects of power plant operation on the environment.

Ziegler said in at least one instance research that had taken only a day or so to do was presented in a way that made it appear to have been performed over a much longer period.

Mrs. Skrupa said the charges imply that OPPD may be interfering with the work of its own paid consultants, and that the district may not be getting a complete report.

William Bachman, OPPD group manager of corporate services, said the district has been selling its scrap metal to the Aaron Ferer Co. for several years. He said there is no legal requirement to take bids on the sales.

Dugdale said both issues would be taken up at the next board meeting.

Cost May Result In Defeat Of Gateway Licensing Site

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Unless the almost $35,500 remodeling estimate for a driver licensing office space at Gateway Shopping Center is scaled down, that location appears headed for defeat.

Debate over two possible locations — Gateway and 47th and Baldwin — will be a major item at Tuesday morning's Lancaster County Board staff meeting.

"I was shocked when I saw the estimates," said Commissioner Robert Colin, who has strongly supported the Gateway location. "I think they have gone overboard," he said, adding that the estimates include partitions for seven individual rooms, including an employee lounge and one private office.

Architects and representatives from the State Motor Vehicle Department will meet with the board Tuesday to discuss the two locations.

A new building at 47th and Baldwin, suggested by Board Chairman Jan Gauger, will require much less remodeling. It would eventually be one of two Lincoln driver licensing locations. The larger and more centrally located Gateway site would mean only one Lincoln office.

Because of the high remodeling costs, Mrs. Gauger is still leaning toward the Baldwin location while Colin is working for the Gateway site.

"I can't quite believe that it would cost that much to remodel," said Commissioner Bruce Hamilton, who supported the Baldwin site in earlier votes on continuing lease negotiations. He has been looking favorably at the more centralized Gateway location since Colin brought it up several weeks ago.

If the estimated remodeling costs can be reduced and if the Motor Vehicle Department agrees to one not two locations, Hamilton said Friday he will probably support the Gateway office.

Though the licensing office is a state function and staffed by state employees, the county government is responsible for providing the office space.

The 47th and Baldwin location has drawn both praise and criticism from University Place residents and businessmen. Since the building has little adjacent parking, licensing office customers will have to park on residential streets or in a nearby and not yet constructed city-owned parking lot intended to relieve parking problems in the University Place business district.

The 47th and Baldwin site would also create traffic problems in the University Place community, according to the County Sheriff Merle Karnopp and City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger.

The licensing office has wanted out of the crowded County-City Building for more than two years, and pressure to move the office has increased within the last year. Moving the office would open up room in the building for a fourth municipal courtroom.

Sale Isn't To Affect Village Inn Business

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

The May 28 sale of the Village Inn Pancake House real estate at 111 S. 29th will in no way affect the restaurant operation, according to Robert Donaldson, president of Village Investments.

The real estate is one of several properties scheduled for auction as a result of the dissolution of Greater Omaha Realty Co. because of a Douglas County District Court action in February.

Donaldson said that his corporation, which operates two pancake houses in Lincoln and restaurants in Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana and Illinois, had been guaranteed that the scheduled sale would not affect the restaurant.

He said that his restaurant operation at 111 S. 66th is not involved since that real estate is not owned by Greater Omaha Realty Co.

Village Investments leases the 29th and O property from the Greater Omaha Realty Co. which was ordered to dissolve and to sell its real estate to settle a dispute between partners over the selling price for one partner's interest in the firm.

According to an Associated Press story, the company is a partnership made up of Herman Coehn and his sons, Sheldon, Donald and Arthur, a daughter, Florence Davis, and Donald Sheldon's wife, Peggy.

Arthur Cohen wanted to sell his interest in the partnership but the partners couldn't agree on a selling price, which resulted in the court order, the AP reported.

Also involved is the Loyal Hotel in Omaha, four Sarpy County farms and a farm in Cass County, as well as an apartment complex and warehouse in Council Bluffs.

Auction of the Lincoln real estate will be May 28 at the Lancaster County-City Building.

According to the Lancaster County sheriff's office, an attorney had notified it by telephone of a referee's sale on the property but that the office has received no further information on the matter.

tervened on the government side, and the trial is set to begin May 12.

During a hearing Thursday, an attorney for the National Restaurant Association, the National Livestock Feeders Association and the National Association of Meat Purveyors, all plaintiff intervenors, said he had filed a motion with the Circuit Court to extend the 45-day limit by 31 days. Had the request been granted, Denney would have had until July 1 to make his ruling.

A spokesman for the clerk of the Circuit Court told the Associated Press late Friday that the extension motion was considered earlier in the day, and was rejected.

The rejection means the trial, which some says could last two weeks, will go on as scheduled.

Thierstein Hits Vocal Minority's Influence On City

City Council candidate Bill Thierstein Friday urged voters to elect a representative group of people to the council and office of mayor.

Thierstein said he often feels city officials have paid more attention "to the loud vocal minority than to the wishes of the total community."

He said he doesn't believe city government should be run and decisions made only after a "town hall" meeting. He did not refer to what meetings and decisions the council has made after those type of meetings.

As the election nears, you deserve to know my thoughts and plans for continued positive action on programs and issues which concern us all.

POLICE FORCE/ POLICE CHIEF:

The efficiency and high standards of our police force must not be compromised. The recent DWI investigation demonstrates our law enforcement is conducted in a manner to serve the public and that it will withstand close scrutiny. I am 100 per cent behind our present policies and will urge the selection of the strongest possible individual as our next police chief. Procedures for this selection are well-established and are fair. However, I do recommend that weighted consideration be given to the highly capable personnel within our present police force.

LIQUOR LICENSES:

I am opposed to any increase in the number of liquor licenses. At the same time, limiting licenses should not have the effect of automatically increasing license value. I will propose an ordinance which will stabilize license transfer.

HOUSING & NEIGHBORHOOD DEVELOPMENT:

The citizens of our inner city deserve all the help we can provide toward raising living standards and preventing urban decay. My formation of the Community Development Department has made it possible to begin a comprehensive program for rehabilitation of older homes and neighborhoods. To encourage private investment in these areas we have secured federal aid in the form of low interest loans and direct grants. I will continue to encourage the combined use of public and private funds in this area. This is a much preferable alternative to the levying of additional local taxes for subsidized public housing.

TRANSPORTATION:

I am proud that we have achieved an efficient, updated transportation system during my administration. But this upgrading must be an ongoing process. Studies are now under way to project our needs for public transportation as a means for coping with future energy shortages, easing traffic and parking problems and better serving our senior citizens. I pledge my continued efforts in implementing these studies.

"WHY DO THE HEATHEN RAGE?"

2nd Psalm and Acts 4:25

This column has been published for over 13 years. The following is a reprint of the May 15, 1965 article:

From 1909 until about 1922 the writer was employed as a cotton buyer.

Last Saturday morning, May 8, 1965, about 7 A.M. a taxi-cab stopped at my house. A Negro man got out. Overheard the driver tell him the fare was $1.75, so it cost him that much to visit me. About the following conversation took place: "I owe you some money, and I want to pay it," he said. "Are you sure?" I replied, "I do not remember it." "Yes, sir, I am, I promised to pay you and want to do it now." "How much is it," I asked. "$50.00." "Well, if you are sure about it and want to pay, I will write you a receipt. I might check my books and find it. Do you have any idea when it was, how long ago?" "It was when you were buying cotton. I promised to pay you back, and have been praying to The Lord to help me do so. I have had a mighty hard time making a living all these years."

So, for fifty years, more or less, this Negro man had been striving to make his promise good! He seemed relieved after handing me $50.00 cash. "Pay your vows unto God; for He hath no pleasure in fools: pay that which thou hast vowed." — Ecclesi 5:4. Had this man been like a lot of us lacking character, honesty, integrity, principle, who borrow and promise to pay and let the creditor do the remembering and worrying, had he been this sort of two-legged animal, doubtless he would now be driving a car himself instead of paying taxi fare, even though the car belonged to someone who had been "taken for a ride" financially!

We feel rather inclined to stop this article here lest we spoil the effect of this Negro's sermon that took about fifty years of his life to preach. However, we will try to give it a Scriptural text, and context.

Psalm 37, beginning with verse 21: "THE WICKED BORROWETH, AND PAYETH NOT AGAIN: BUT THE RIGHTEOUS SHOWETH MERCY, AND GIVETH. For such as be blessed of Him shall inherit the earth; and they that be cursed of Him shall be cut off. The steps of a good man are ordered by The Lord: and He delighteth in his way. Though he fall, he shall not be utterly cast down: for the Lord upholdeth him with His hand. I HAVE BEEN YOUNG, AND NOW AM OLD: YET HAVE I NOT SEEN THE RIGHTEOUS FORSAKEN, NOR HIS SEED BEGGING BREAD. He is ever merciful, and lendeth; and his seed is blessed. Depart from evil, and do good; and dwell forevermore. For the Lord loveth judgment, and forsaketh not His saints; they are preserved forever; but the seed of the wicked shall be cut off. The righteous shall inherit the land, and dwell therein forever. The mouth of the righteous speaketh wisdom, and his tongue talketh of judgment. The law of His God is in his heart; none of his steps shall slide." ("For The Lord loveth judgment — The mouth of the righteous — His tongue talketh of judgment." Have had several letters of late from some offended because this column "talks of judgment." We hope you get prepared for God's judgment by the ONE and only ADVOCATE!)

In the 19th Psalm, and in many another place, the Bible likens God's Word and Law to, or better than, silver and gold, jewels and riches. That is what they need in the "poverty pockets," as well as everywhere else! Witness: "ONCE I WAS YOUNG, NOW I AM OLD: YET HAVE I NOT SEEN THE RIGHTEOUS FORSAKEN, NOR HIS SEED BEGGING BREAD," said the man after God's heart!

We suggest, even urge you to read this 37th Psalm over and over again, and then some more, enough to note the contrasts made of the wicked and righteous and be able to appraise yourself in the light of God's Word, and see clearly in which category you belong.

Concerning the "Advancement Of The Colored People" and all other kind: The Negro man noted above, mightily advanced himself in the sight of God Almighty, and in the sight of every honorable man by the fifty-year sermon his life has preached on being faithful to his promise. "What shall it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, and lose his soul, or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" This question was asked by The Lord Jesus Christ, who also said, advance or "exalt yourself, and be abused," by God Almighty!

Bank, Store Consider Tunnel Beneath O St.

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Lincolmites may be able to cross O St. at 13th without getting rained on, snowed on or nearly run down by motorists.

Officials of both the National Bank of Commerce and Miller & Paine are considering the construction of an underground tunnel connecting the blocks north and south of O St.

Paul Amen of NBC told fellow Downtown Advisory Committee members Friday that architect Pat Darling will meet with Public Works Director Bob Obering to go over preliminary design plans.

DAC already has endorsed the tunnel concept connecting the new bank and the department store. That's because bank officials have ruled out the construction of a second level skywalk connecting the institution to neighboring buildings because of the bank's design.

While private businesses would assume most of the construction costs, Amen suggested the city might foot the bill for relocating a 54-inch storm sewer and another utility line as the government's contribution to the project.

DAC member John Campbell, president of Miller & Paine, is enthusiastic about the tunnel. But he urged officials to move rapidly on the project so that the tunnel could be constructed before O St. is repaved. Otherwise, the newly paved street would have to be ripped up — something Campbell especially is against.

Although no cost estimates were available, Amen said it is cheaper to go underground than to build a skywalk.

Since DAC members don't want a concrete tube connecting the two blocks, members suggested the city consider leasing space in the tunnel to vendors and retailers.

The tunnel system, considered a possibility to link other downtown blocks, is part of DAC's overall pedestrian system. Tunnels would complement, not be a substitute for, skywalks.

In designing tunnels, DAC proposed that developers consider running utility lines through the space, consider space for offices and shops and take into consideration making provisions so that handicapped people can use both tunnels and skywalks.

Pushing Drugs Nothing New

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

All this talk of pushing drugs isn't anything new to Herman Mohr. He's been doing it for 50 years. Legally, of course.

Mohr is one of only a dozen registered pharmacists in Nebraska — and the only one in Lincoln — celebrating his 50th anniversary this year.

He may have a little difficulty proving it to a skeptic, however. His license, dated July 17, 1925, is so yellowed and faded all the signatures but those written with indelible ink disappeared long ago. The autograph of Gov. Adam McMullen is one of the few still visible.

As could be expected, Mohr has witnessed more changes and innovations in his field than there are "tiny time pills" in a Contac capsule.

1925 Graduate

A native of Lincoln, he was in the class of 1925, the last group to graduate from a two-year pharmacy course at the University of Nebraska. Today, it takes five years of school and a year's internship to qualify as a registered pharmacist.

In 1925, "we knew enough to be pharmacists," Mohr says. Most of the drugs currently on the shelves hadn't yet been invented.

Nowadays, though, a pharmacist "is trained almost as extensively as a doctor," he says. And in the future, Mohr predicts, druggists will help alleviate the doctor shortage by prescribing medicine for relatively minor ailments, such as a cold or flu.

Although Mohr officially retired back in 1966, his life of leisure didn't last long.

He was digging dandelions in his front yard when a salesman friend happened by and asked what he was doing "sitting in the grass."

The salesman convinced Mohr that he had a "moral" obligation to go back to work since pharmacists were in short supply. But the deciding argument, Mohr remembers, was the salesman's prediction that a retired person wouldn't always be able to live comfortably on $100 a month.

Glad He Listened

"I'm glad I listened to him now," the semiretired druggist says. "If I hadn't gone back to work, my savings would have run out long ago."

So after 41 years of pushing pills across the counter, mainly in Lincoln, Seward, Utica and Hastings pharmacies, Mohr agreed to stop by the drug department at Treasure City "just to see a 'real nice' drug department."

"I got there and he (the resident pharmacist) said he was going out for a cup of coffee and asked if I'd fill a few (prescriptions). Well, he was gone two hours and by that time I'd caught the bug to work again."

Mohr agreed to help out until the pharmacy department could find somebody else. "It took until 1973 to find somebody," he says, feigning displeasure. He still works occasionally, when someone is ill or on vacation.

Mohr vividly recalls the "old days" but not too fondly. He remembers standing 12 to 14 hours a day behind the drug counter, grinding up drugs and scooping tiny portions into capsules.

Fifty years ago, druggists compounded nearly all their own medicines, he says, from eye solutions to cough syrup. They even molded their own tablets and suppositories.

There's a "trick" to mixing up cough syrup, he recalls. "If you don't add the ingredients in the right order, it turns out lumpy."

Mohr laughs now as he remembers how he used to mold melted cocoa butter into tiny suppository bars. A bowl of ice on the side cooled his hands so he could work with the slick liquid.

But the days have long since passed when pharmacists actually used a mortar and pestle — the familiar symbol of a bowl with a club-shaped grinding tool inside.

Most Now Prepackaged

In the past seven years, Mohr has only compounded about a dozen prescription drugs from raw materials. Nearly every medicine comes prepackaged, "untouched by human hands... all you have to do is glue the label on the bottle," he says.

"Today is the day, absolutely," the old-timer says. "In those days we made only 20 cents and hour and we didn't get paid for overtime."

Not only was the pay substandard — even for the 1920s — but a pharmacist used to spend only a fraction of his day working with medicines. Most of the time he was washing windows, scrubbing floors and selling ice cream cones behind the soda fountain.

And back then, almost anyone could hand out prescriptions, Mohr remembers. "Why, you could have your grandmother or your cousin working back there."

Not today. Laws have been tightened so that when a druggist leaves the department, even for a few minutes, "he has to turn the key." No one can hand out prescriptions except a registered pharmacist.

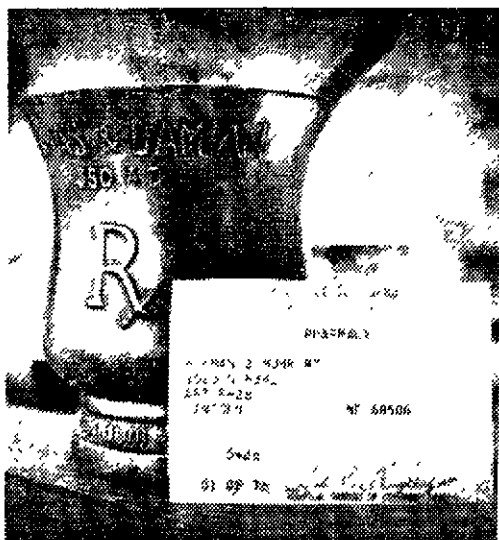

"It's really a pleasure to work now," Mohr says. "I've often thought it was like taking money under false pretenses. Everything it made up for you." He said some manufacturers even have the pills counted out in bottles of 50 or 100 so the druggists doesn't have to bother.

But Mohr said he isn't suggesting the extensive training and experience aren't essential. Students still must learn what is in every drug and how it is manufactured, he said.

May Counteract

They also have to be able to identify drugs which may counteract a prescription drug. Aspirin, for example, may counteract the effects of nitroglycerin, a medication used to slow a person's heartbeat rate. And certain "high-powered" antibiotics can be deadly poisonous if a person has been drinking or later drinks alcohol.

"When I was in school... we mainly took plants and made our own drugs," he confides. "We had to study this marijuana plant, you know. Blushing slightly, he hastily added: 'We used it in prescriptions for cattle.'"

Kids Never Guaranteed

DEAR ABBY: I am 29, and my husband is 33. We are unable to have children of our own and want to adopt, and have our names in at a very reliable adoption agency.

We would prefer a very young infant but are told that it could be a long wait. We have been offered a brother and sister, ages 5 and 6, but friends have told us that we shouldn't consider children who are that old. They say that children of that age are usually emotionally damaged and that we would be looking for trouble. We can easily care for those two and want them.

What is your feeling about this? We trust you.

DEAR ABBY: I am the oldest of five children. Four years ago, both of my parents smoked about three packs of cigarettes a day. One day my father decided to quit cold turkey. He also proclaimed that my mother was going to quit, too.

Well, my father really quit, but my mother didn't. She said she did, but she used to sneak cigarettes behind everybody's backs. She wasn't fooling Dad. He knew it, but he made all of us policemen, and he was the chief. We felt bad ratting on Mom, because she sometimes keeps things we do a secret from Dad because he is a violent man and she wants to protect us.

We believe Mom should quit smoking, but we can't do anything about it. We've now sided with Mom because Dad has threatened to send her to her mother if she smokes another cigarette.

We don't want our home broken up. What should we do?

CIGARETTE PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: It's unfair of your father to ask you to inform on your mother. He should know that nicotine is strongly addictive and some smokers can't be cured by nagging or threats. Lay off Mom; she's trying to quit. If she succeeds, it will be her victory over herself, not your dad's — or yours.

usually not difficult for him to make all the tricks that can be made. Declarer should therefore try to shape his play so as to avoid leading any key suit before he learns all that can be learned about the distribution.

Consider this deal where West leads the queen of clubs. South sees at once that there are 13 tricks if the hearts are divided normally (3-2), so he devotes all his thoughts to coping with a possible 4-1 (or 5-0) division in that suit.

In line with this, after winning the club with the ace, he plays the A-K-J of spades, followed by a club to the king. East, rather surprisingly, shows out of clubs, discarding a diamond.

This unexpected development provides South with a world of information about the East-West hands. It is now clear that West started with exactly eight clubs and two spades, and in order to uncover West's other three cards, South cashes the A-K-Q of diamonds.

When West shows out on the third diamond, his original distribution becomes an absolute certainty. He must have started with exactly 2-1-2-8 distribution.

Accordingly, South plays a low heart to the queen, West producing the nine, returns a heart, and confidently finesses the eight after East follows low — thus scoring 2,210 points as a direct result of his investigative card reading.

Note that it does not help East to split his honors on the second round of hearts. If he plays the ten, declarer wins with the king, leads the nine of spades to the queen, and plays still another heart to gobble up East's J-6 with the A-8.

Pushing Drugs Nothing New

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

All this talk of pushing drugs isn't anything new to Herman Mohr. He's been doing it for 50 years. Legally, of course.

Mohr is one of only a dozen registered pharmacists in Nebraska — and the only one in Lincoln — celebrating his 50th anniversary this year.

He may have a little difficulty proving it to a skeptic, however. His license, dated July 17, 1925, is so yellowed and faded all the signatures but those written with indelible ink disappeared long ago. The autograph of Gov. Adam McMullen is one of the few still visible.

As could be expected, Mohr has witnessed more changes and innovations in his field than there are "tiny time pills" in a Contac capsule.

1925 Graduate

A native of Lincoln, he was in the class of 1925, the last group to graduate from a two-year pharmacy course at the University of Nebraska. Today, it takes five years of school and a year's internship to qualify as a registered pharmacist.

In 1925, "we knew enough to be pharmacists," Mohr says. Most of the drugs currently on the shelves hadn't yet been invented.

Nowadays, though, a pharmacist "is trained almost as extensively as a doctor," he says. And in the future, Mohr predicts, druggists will help alleviate the doctor shortage by prescribing medicine for relatively minor ailments, such as a cold or flu.

Although Mohr officially retired back in 1966, his life of leisure didn't last long.

He was digging dandelions in his front yard when a salesman friend happened by and asked what he was doing "sitting in the grass."

The salesman convinced Mohr that he had a "moral" obligation to go back to work since pharmacists were in short supply. But the deciding argument, Mohr remembers, was the salesman's prediction that a retired person wouldn't always be able to live comfortably on $100 a month.

Corporation Tax Vote Put Off By Legislature

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

For the second day in a row, the Legislature Friday shied away from a decision on a proposal to sharply increase corporation income taxes.

The bill, LB123, which could hike corporation income tax revenue by about $14 million in 1975 and 1976, is scheduled for further consideration next Monday.

Supporters argue that the proposal would require corporations to pay their fair share of revenue, and produce the funds which could increase state aid to schools and reduce the load on local property taxes.

Drive Away Industry Opponents contended that LB123 could drive out industry, reduce employment and result in higher costs for consumer goods.

Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield, the bill's sponsor, said the plan would bring Nebraska's corporate taxes into line with most other states.

The proposal would turn Nebraska's flat rate corporation income tax into a graduated system, increasing the rate on all income above $25,000.

Under the current system, corporations are assessed at a rate of 25% of the personal income tax rate on all their taxable income. With the personal income tax rate now at 10%, the corporation rate is 2 1/2%.

On First $25,000 The Keyes plan would continue the tax on the first $25,000 of income at 25% of the personal income tax rate.

But a 35% factor would be applied on the next $50,000 of income, and a 45% factor levied on income above $75,000.

That would result in 2 1/2%, 3 1/2% and 4 1/2% rates as long as the personal income tax remained at 10%.

If it were boosted to 13%, retroactive to Jan. 1, as proposed by Gov. J. James Exon, the proposed corporation rates would climb to 3.25% on the first $25,000, to 4.55% on the next $50,000, to 5.85% on taxable income exceeding $75,000.

Retroactive Rates LB123 would establish the new rates retroactive to Jan. 1, producing an estimated $6.5 million in additional income in 1975, and another $7.1 million in 1976. Funds from both years would help finance the 1975-76 fiscal year budget.

And that, Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue said, would still leave corporation taxes below the level they were four years ago.

A drop in personal income tax rates during that time also reduced the corporation income tax rate, he noted, and the Legislature in the meantime has provided $23 million in tax relief for agricultural and business inventories and equipment.

Aid For Schools Both Lewis and Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha suggested that the resulting revenue from LB123 could fund an increase in state assistance for the schools.

Sen. John Murphy of South Sioux City warned that the tax hike could hamper Nebraska's economic development program and drive some businesses out of the state.

Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly said Nebraska should avoid a graduated tax on corporation income, and retain its present fixed rate system.

Other opponents noted that the tax rate on corporations will automatically increase this year anyway with the proposed hike in personal income tax rates, jumping from 2 1/2% to 3.25% if the 13% personal rate is accepted.

1974 Loss Is Almost Wiped Out

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, cheered by hopes for cheaper and more plentiful money, took another jump Friday in buying that brought the Dow Jones industrial average to the verge of wiping out its 1974 loss.

The Dow average of 30 blue chip stocks climbed 17.52 to 848.48, just 2.48 shy of the point at which it ended 1973.

In just over four months since the start of this year, it has thus erased 232 points of the loss it recorded in 1974, its worst year since the 1930s.

Big Board volume accelerated to 25.21 million shares, from 20.66 million on Thursday.

For the third straight day, however, the over-all market tally showed a less exuberant gain than the Dow. Friday's count of the 1,823 issues traded on the NYSE showed 959 gainers against 495 declines.

Analysts noted that the Dow looked especially good because of strong buying lately in some of the big-name basic industry issues such as the steels and chemicals.

The market appeared to draw a good deal of its momentum Friday from the belief that a widely feared new upsurge in interest rates wasn't in the offing after all.

After Thursday's close the Treasury said that bigger-than-expected tax receipts had cut the amount of borrowing it would need to do to finance the federal budget by $5 billion.

The bond market, which has played a principal role in setting the tone for stocks in recent weeks, responded to the news with a vigorous rally, and the enthusiasm spread quickly into stocks.

A second jump seemed to be the disclosure by Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, that his agency was aiming for a 5 to 7 1/2 percent rate of growth in the nation's money supply through next March.

The dealer, the senator said, told him he was losing $1,000 a month and his business was down 75% from a year ago. He also said he was by no means alone and that other dealers along Interstate 80 were experiencing the same situation, according to Schmit.

However, the introducer of the "national standard" bill, Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue, was successful in offering an amendment which exempted wine beer is already exempted from the provisions of LB340.

Omaha Sen. Glenn Goodrich added an amendment to the markup bill to allow a husband or wife to keep a liquor license after the death of their spouse.

The other, LB340, requires wholesalers to give Nebraska retailers the lowest price they offer in the nation.

United Methodist Pastor Appointments Announced

Bishop Don W. Holter, resident bishop of the United Methodist Church in Nebraska, has announced his intended appointment changes involving United Methodist pastors in Nebraska.

Appointments are tentative until their official reading by Bishop Holter during the opening session of the 1975 annual conference Thursday, June 5, in Lincoln, and assignments become effective at that time. Newly assigned pastors are expected to be in their new appointments Sunday, June 15.

Except for the assignments of district superintendents, only changes in pastoral appointments are listed. Other ministers are reassigned to their current positions for another year.

Long Hair Dismissal Appealed

Spec. 5 Dave Mosier, one of two National Guard aircraft mechanics fired for wearing long hair, has appealed his dismissal. Deputy Adj. Gen. Burl Johnson said Friday the long hair issue will be aired before an Army National Guard hearing officer from another state within the month.

In his appeal, Mosier reportedly contends Adj. Gen. Francis Winner arbitrarily decided his and Spec. 5 Bill McClatchy's hair was too long and fired them. Winner, on the other hand, maintains his decision was made according to the National Guard's grooming regulations.

Johnson said the decision followed periodic inspections by National Guard officials who determined that the Nebraska Army National Guard was not in compliance with grooming standards.

Johnson said the appeal hearing must be in progress by May 18; the hearing officer will then make a recommendation to Winner. Asked whether the hearing will be open to the public, Johnson said it will be the hearing officer's choice.

Mosier could not be reached Friday to discuss his appeal.

He was one of 40 technicians who work on 36 Army National Guard helicopters kept at the Army Aviation Support Facility in Lincoln.

Phone Companies Reported 'Scared'

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer
A state order reducing phone rates in Kennard due to poor service "scared" the Nebraska telephone industry, the Nebraska Supreme Court was told Friday.

An attorney for the Blair Telephone Co., John O'Hanlon, asked the court during oral arguments to reverse the rate reduction and refund ordered by the Nebraska Public Service Commission last year.

O'Hanlon said the rate reduction was arbitrary and punitive. The commission took the action after roughly 100 Kennard residents complained of poor phone service and asked the commission to transfer the community's service to Northwestern Bell.

Noting the Nebraska Telephone Association filed a brief in support of Blair Telephone's position, O'Hanlon said, "The telephone industry in general is looking at this case because it sets a precedent."

"And I think it is fair to say the industry is scared," he said. O'Hanlon said the commission had various service remedies at its disposal but instead chose to turn a service case into a rate case by "fining" the firm for its service.

However, Kennard residents were unable to argue their case before the court.

The court refused to let the Rev. Joseph Myers, one of the Kennard residents, argue on the other side of the issue on the grounds that he had not submitted a brief in advance.

The Rev. Mr. Myers said afterwards that the group did not have a lawyer and that the only information he was able to get about the appeal was through the commission.

He said he was unaware that a brief had to be submitted and questioned why he was singled out as the appellee in the suit.

"The court, I am confident, has done what is legal," he said. "I'm sure by reading the record of the commission the court will be able to get our side."

Long Hair Dismissal Appealed

Field Ready For Derby

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Trainers put the finishing touches on 15 handsome 3-year-old colts Friday in one of the calmest eves of the Kentucky Derby in recent years.

Missing was the electric anticipation of last year's centennial running of America's premier horse race. Absent, too, was the overpowering awe that preceded Secretariat's victory in 1973 and Riva Ridge's triumph in 1972.

Still, many of the humans who prepare these equine athletes for the most famous two minutes in the world of sports talked in hushed tones as the months of preparation drew close to the end.

John L. Greer's Foolish Pleasure, last season's juvenile champion and a loser only once in the 11 races of his career, drew most of the attention in the barn area.

The sleek son of What a Pleasure was the early 9-5 favorite to earn the $209,600 winner's share from the $262,100 purse, second richest in Derby history.

But newsmen and other visitors overlooked none of the entries for Saturday's 101st Run for the Roses, for it is tabbed as one of the most balanced fields in the past decade.

It includes John W. Galbreath's one-two finishers in the Florida Derby, Prince Thou Art and Sylvan Place; Louisiana Derby and Blue Grass Stakes winner Master Derby and Arkansas Derby king Promised City.

Representing the West Coast are Diabolo, who erased a 25-year-old track record in the California Derby, and Santa Anita Derby star Avatar.

In the wings are Bombay Duck and Media, second and third behind Foolish Pleasure in the Wood Memorial; Honey Mark, a fast closing second to Master Derby in the Blue

A dream away from glory are the outsiders in the field: Gatch, Rushing Man, Fashion Sale and Bold Chapeau.

Only three of the 14 trainers for this year's Derby have brought candidates to Churchill Downs for the race in past years and none of the three have made the winner's circle.

LeRoy Jolley, trainer for Foolish Pleasure, also had the solid favorite in Ridan in 1962, but had to settle for third money as the colt trailed Decidedly and Roman Line to the wire.

Lou Rondinello, who handles the Darby Dan entry of Prince Thou Art and Sylvan Place, brought Little Current here last year only to have the eventual Preakness and Belmont winner finish fifth in the Derby.

Media's John Campo had Jim French, second choice in the betting, in 1971 and finished second to Canonero II. He also had a 62-1 outsider, Twice a Prince, in 1973, who beat only one horse in a field of 13.

The road to Churchill Downs and Saturday's 5:32 p.m., EDT, Derby began April 4 of last year for Foolish Pleasure when he won the first race of his life.

In spectacular style, he then reeled off a string of six stakes victories, only one of them even close, to become the season's 2-year-old champion.

After a rest, Foolish Pleasure returned to the racing wars by overpowering two other colts in an exhibition race, then put down Prince Thou Art in the Flamingo March 1 by nearly two lengths.

The string was snapped four weeks later, however, as both Prince Thou Art and Sylvan Place were ahead of Foolish Pleasure in the Florida Derby.

Foolish Pleasure returned to form in the Wood when he dashed away from a difficult No. 15 post position and ran down Bombay Duck at the wire for the victory.

Master Derby, however, brings the longest winning string into the Derby, having won his last five in a row by a total of more than nine lengths.

The son of 1970 Derby winner Dust Commander won the Dragoon and the Kindergarten last year and was second in the Breeders Futurity at Keeneland and the Jockey Club here at Churchill Downs.

After winning the Del-Mar Futurity last season, Frank McMahon's Diabolo accounted for this season's San Jacinto and the California Derby, where he clipped Noor's longstanding track record.

Avatar, Arthur Seeligson Jr.'s home-bred son of Graustark, was lightly raced last season, but has won four of nine this year, including the Bradbury Stakes and the Santa Anita Derby.

Bob Clayton's Promised City took the To Market Stakes as a 2-year-old and two minor handicaps this season before coming from dead last with five-eighths to go for his Arkansas Derby victory.

Other stakes winners in the Derby field include Roland Aristone Sr.'s Bombay Duck, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Roberts' Honey Mark and Pedro Diaz' Gatch.

Bold Chapeau completed his Derby preparations Friday with a quick three-furlongs in :35 1-5 while Promised City stepped the same distance in 38 seconds and Prince Thou Art was one second faster.

The Derby will be televised nationally (ABC) from 5-6 p.m., EDT, and will be broadcast on a worldwide radio network.

Eight 2-year-old fillies will run in the $20,000-added Debutante Stakes, a 75-year-old tradition at Churchill Downs on Derby Day. Pink Jade was assigned high weight of 122 pounds for the five-furlong test scheduled about two hours prior to the Run for the Roses.

For 3-year-olds who aren't anticipating glory of the Derby, there is the $50,000 El Dorado Handicap at Hollywood Park and the $25,000 Woodlawn Stakes at Pimlico.

Huskers, Wildcats Set Again

If a football game isn't enough for the Nebraska sports fans there is more for the asking Saturday.

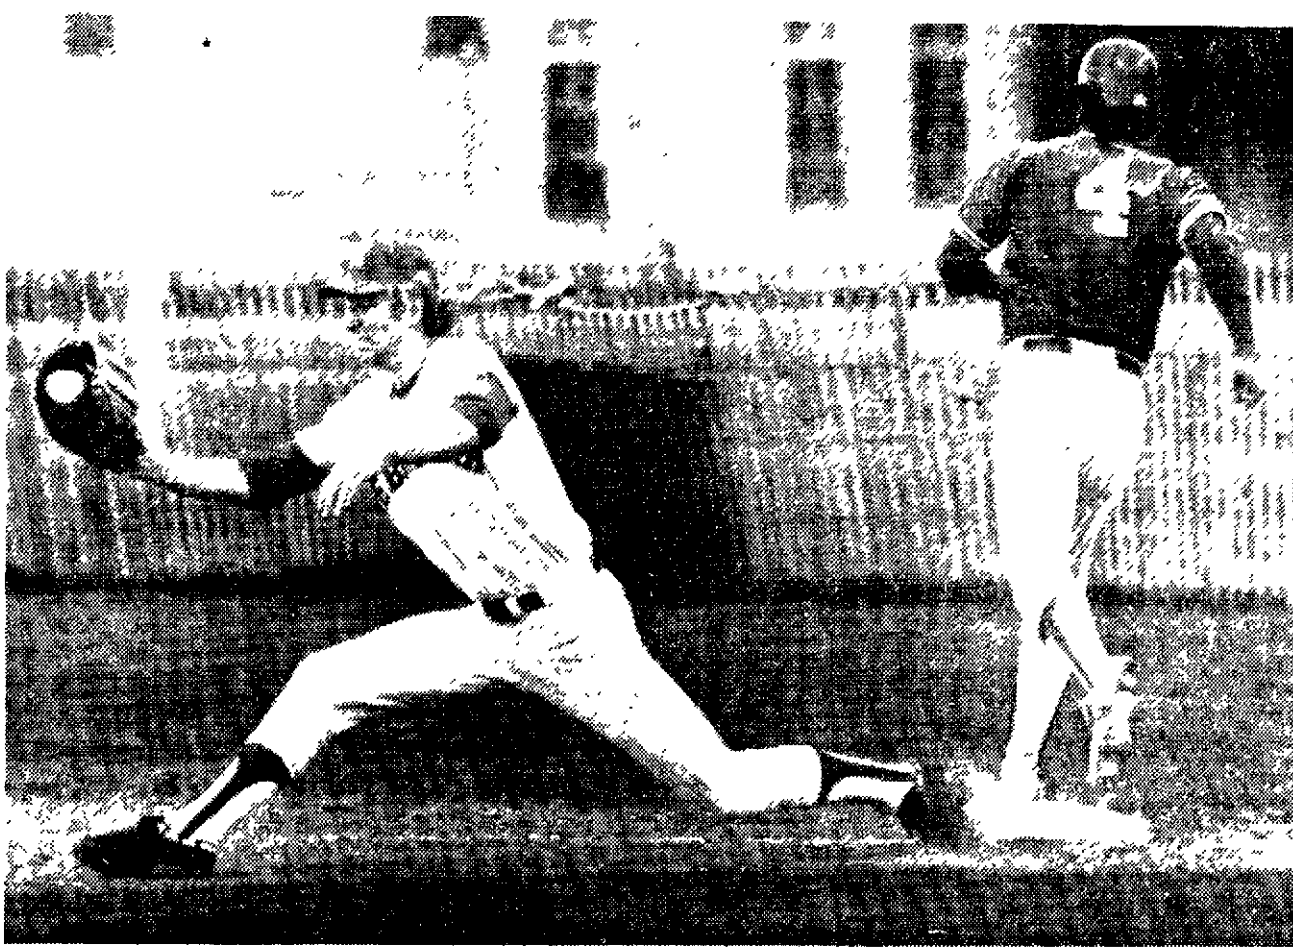

Weather permitting the Husker baseball team will try once again to play a doubleheader against Kansas State starting at 11 a.m.

The Wildcats finished the top half of the first inning and as NU's Dick Anderson was about to step to the plate the rains came delaying the game.

The series will conclude Sunday with a single nine-inning game at 1 p.m. at the NU Diamond.

Kansas State, 6-6 in the Big Eight is hoping to bump the Huskers, 5-4, from the fourth place spot in the league.

Later in the afternoon, at 4 p.m. the Husker track squad will host Missouri on the Ed Weir Track stationed in between the football stadium and the baseball field.

Jan Yeagley (4) of Kansas State beats out a hit as Nebraska's Larry Winum makes the stretch to catch a throw from Bryant Akisada. Yeagley was the only man to reach first base in the afternoon as NU starter Boyd Batenhorst struck out the next batter to retire the side just as the rains washed out the doubleheader, before the Huskers could complete the first inning. The twin bill has been reslated for Saturday at 11 a.m.

Doane Sets Night Relays

Crete — Sixteen teams are entered in this year's Doane Night Relays scheduled here at the Simon Field track Saturday night.

A number of meet records are in jeopardy going into the 27th running of the relays.

The three-mile mark of 14:29, shared by Concordia's Dan Cloeter and Dean Ganges is expected to fall due to the entries of John Muthama of Bethel College, who took sixth in the Kansas Relays with a time of 13:47.2, and Marymount's Tony Brien who has been timed at 13:53 for the event this year.

Field events are set to begin at 3:30 p.m. and track events at 3:45.

'New' NU Eyes Red-White Tilt

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska football fans will get an opportunity to see the results of the rebuilding job Coach Tom Osborne and his staff have done this spring when the squad plays its annual Red-White game Saturday afternoon in NU's Memorial Stadium.

Kickoff will be at 1:30 p.m., hopefully before an all-time record spring crowd. The weatherman has promised a mostly fair afternoon with temperature around 70 degrees and winds 10 to 20 miles an hour out of the northwest.

Major areas to be rebuilt have been the offensive line, linebackers, and quarterback. Osborne feels there has been progress in all areas, but says "we're not there yet."

Terry Luck, senior-to-be from Fayetteville, N.C., has emerged as the No. 1 candidate to succeed Dave Humm at the all-important quarterback position. He'll guide the Red unit, which includes mostly first and fourth string players.

Vince Ferragamo and Tom Sorley, the top challengers for Luck's spot, will handle the offense for the White unit, which basically has second and third string players.

An area of interest, especially to the coaching staff, will be defensive end and safety because of the recent NCAA ruling which bars Ray Phillips and Jimmy Burrow from playing in the season opener here against Louisiana State on Sept. 13.

Phillips, who was ineligible last season, has worked his way into the starting spot as replacement for graduated Tom Pate at left defensive end.

He'll play in the game today, but coaches will study closely the play of his possible replacements for the LSU game.

The top backup people this spring have been George Andrews, a sophomore from Omaha, and Tom Coccia, a senior from Hillside, N.J., behind Phillips.

On the other end of the line behind returning starter Bob Martin have been Dave Redding, senior from North Platte, and Tony Samuel, a sophomore who has had some good moments this spring.

At safety, defensive backfield coach Warren Powers has two possible replacements for Burrow in Larry Valasek, sophomore from Silver Creek, and Ted Harvey, a soph from Lexington.

Valasek has been bothered all spring with an ankle and groin injury. Harvey has been worked at both cornerback and safety.

Heinsohn Says Celtics Have It Together Now

By United Press International
Although his defending champion Celtics have surprisingly fallen two games down in their NBA Eastern Division final to Washington, Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn sees better days ahead in the immediate future.

"I think we've got it together now," said the optimistic coach Friday after the Celtics concluded what he called "a good practice" in preparation for the third game of the best-of-seven set Saturday afternoon.

"I didn't look at the films of the last game in Washington. I didn't even have to. I could tell the guys were doing things like communicating, talking, finding each other, things we haven't been doing. We're just gonna have to play as tough as we can play. I'm not gonna tell you what we're gonna do. We gotta win this one."

In the Western Division

finals, meantime, Golden State and Chicago had an extra day of rest before resuming their series at Chicago Sunday afternoon. The Warriors and Bulls split the first two games.

The finalists in the American Basketball Association will be determined Saturday night when the Denver Nuggets host the Indiana Pacers in the seventh game of their Western Division championship. The survivor then will take on the Kentucky Colonels, who had an easy path to the Eastern Division title.

Heinsohn was encouraged by the Celtics' practice session Friday because "we were talking among ourselves out there. We had more concentration today than we've had in practices before our other two games this series."

"You can pull tactics until you're blue in the face, but if the ball's not going through the hoop for us, then it doesn't do any good. We shot well in the first half of Sunday's game, and that was it until the last quarter of Wednesday's game. And by that time, the Bulls had enough to stop us. Remember, we went into that quarter down by eight, and were all set. But they played well."

According to a statement by former Celtic great Bob Cousy, Boston has been hurt because team Captain John Havlicek has been getting the worst of his matchup with Washington forwards Mike Riordan and Nick Weatherspoon.

Although the Nuggets will have the homecourt advantage—where they were 40-2 during the regular season—Coach Larry Brown isn't sure just how much it will help.

Sun And Snow Wins Kentucky Oaks Race

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Sun and Snow overtook pace-setting My Juliet with less than one eighth of a mile to go and then withstood a closing challenge by Funalon Friday to win the $65,100 Kentucky Oaks at Churchill Downs.

The victory was owner C.V. Whitney's fourth in the prestigious stakes for 3-year-old fillies which kicked off Kentucky Derby weekend at the Downs.

It was the second time in three years that a Whitney filly has upset a favored filly from Canada. In 1973 Whitney's Bag of Tunes upset La Prevoyante and this time the victim was Hosu.

Garth Patterson got Sun and Snow home in front of Funalon at the end of the 1 1/8 miles timed in 1:44 3/5. Funalon finished four lengths ahead of Sun and Snow's stablemate, Funny Cat, who saved the show by a half length over My Juliet.

Hosu, owned by Roxie Gian

and the 6-5 favorite with the crowd of 42,131, finished 10th in the 11-horse field. She was never really in the race. Mickey Solomon sent her up to challenge My Juliet on the first turn but she never really got the lead and began fading and drifting extremely wide on the backstretch. It was her second straight defeat after four straight victories this year.

The Whitney entry paid $9.80, $4.40 and $5. Funalon, owned by Old Bombast Farms, paid $5.20 and $4.20 as part of Leonard Imperio-trained entry with Precious Elaine.

Completing the order of finish for the 101st Oaks were High Estimate, Sweet Old Girl, Nicotia, Precious Elaine, Luxury, Hosu and Janie Buge.

Early Friday evening, after rains had completely drenched competitors involved in the boys Trans-Nebraska and girls Eastern I-80 Conference track meets at East High, the rains stopped and the sun came out, just in time to shine on the victory lap taken by Lincoln Northeast's boys and girls teams.

Rocket boys' coach Clayton Lusher and girls' coach Nancy Bishop completed the lap in just over two minutes, after pausing for a moment to catch their breath at the 330-yard mark.

The Northeast girls were favored to win the initial I-80 title, but Luther's boys were somewhat of a surprise in the Trans-Nebraska test.

With state powers North Platte and Grand Island and city champion East involved, Las Vegas odds-makers would have given astronomical odds against the Rockets coming out champions in both events.

North Platte wilted with the unfavorable conditions while

Northeast seemed to drive harder with the rain.

A bit of strategy in the early afternoon showers netted Northeast pole vaulter Rick Cole a gold medal in his event defeating the three North Platte vaulters ranked in the state lead.

Cole left his pole covered until the height of 12-6 was reached and took only one vault. His try was good while none of the others were able to match the height.

"Rick had vaulted 13-9 in practice this week," Luther said, "and he felt he had the confidence to wait until 12-6 to start. It worked out well because all the others were slipping on their poles."

The pole vault wasn't the only place where people were slipping.

In the high jump, Hastings' Doug Phelps, owner of the state's best mark of 6-9, was able to clear just 6-4 to tie his own record in the rain along with North Platte's Bruce Kucera.

Northeast's Steve Elikier in both hurdle events.

Brandfas sped to a :14.3 mark in the 120 highs and a :19.6 clocking in the 180 lows.

The high hurdle time is the second fastest recorded in the state this year, and his lows mark ties him for the top time in that event.

Southeast's Perry Krogmeier and East's Doug Caulkins combined for the other record set Friday.

In the 100 yard dash preliminaries, Krogmeier clocked :9.9 to wipe out the record held by Larry Tierney of Grand Island, Ron Strnad of Southeast and Bill Daffer of Grand Island.

Caulkins won the event in the finals matching the record set by Krogmeier.

In the I-80 meet, all the marks set will stand as records since it's the first year for the meet.

Prince Astro Assigned Beef State Top Weight

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Prince Astro is up to his old tricks again.

Last year, he used a win in the Beef State Handicap as a springboard to later success at Ak-Sar-Ben. It was a nifty formula that produced earnings of $32,288.50 at the Omaha track for owner C. L. Warner of Arlington, Tex.

That's the same plan trainer W. C. Thomas is using again as Prince Astro heads a nine-horse field for Saturday's $25,000-added Beef State Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben.

In running a 1:03 4/5 clocking over the 5 1/2-furlong course last year, the 6-year-old roan packed 120 pounds. Apparently he's improved a little, at least according to racing secretary and handicapper John Maluvius who assigned the Prince 124 pounds.

He must concede from 7 to 16 pounds in the 5 1/2-furlong chase.

But the Prince must have a fast track — he can't handle the soft footing of an off-track.

If the track is fast, however, the Prince is definitely the one to catch. Besides the Beef State, Prince Astro also won Ak-Sar-Ben's Speed Handicap and finished third in the $55,888 Board of Governor's Handicap.

This season, Prince Astro won more than $42,000 at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Ark. with wins in the $25,000-added Count Fleet Handicap and the $25,000 Hot Springs Handicap.

Perhaps the most serious threat to Prince Astro will come from E. C. Cashman's Ride The Curl, who has been assigned 115 pounds. He was a $30,000 claim at Hialeah Park in Florida after capturing four races during the winter Florida racing season.

Racing with second top-weight of 117 pounds will be A. L. Lovelady's I'll Swanee, who won four of five races this season at Turf Paradise in Phoenix.

Regular rider Dan W. Whited will pilot Prince Astro, Salustio Burgos will guide I'll Swanee and no rider has been selected for Ride The Curl.

The High Country Stable's Aye Jay Aye and E. R. Eagen and Mary L. Tobin's Chance Landing, each been saddled with 116 pounds. Chance Landing captured four of seven 1974 races for winnings of $10,760 while Aye Jay Aye scored wins in two handicaps this spring at Detroit.

Other entrants and their weights include George McLoughlin's Brush Cutter, 113; B. R. Evans' Prayer Leader, 112; the Circle S Stable's Villa Fire, Ill., and O. J. Glass' Color Me New, 108.

Derby Race Set

Ak-Sar-Ben will show the 101st Kentucky Derby on its closed circuit television monitors on Saturday. If the Derby does not conflict with an Omaha race, it will be shown live. Otherwise it will be taped and shown after the local race is completed.

23,000 Expected

Ak-Sar-Ben officials are expecting a crowd in excess of 23,000 for the first Saturday of racing. Last year's opening-Saturday crowd was 22,973.

The series will conclude Sunday with a single nine-inning game at 1 p.m. at the NU Diamond.

Kansas State, 6-6 in the Big Eight is hoping to bump the Huskers, 5-4, from the fourth place spot in the league.

Later in the afternoon, at 4 p.m. the Husker track squad will host Missouri on the Ed Weir Track stationed in between the football stadium and the baseball field.

Doane Sets Night Relays

Crete — Sixteen teams are entered in this year's Doane Night Relays scheduled here at the Simon Field track Saturday night.

A number of meet records are in jeopardy going into the 27th running of the relays.

The three-mile mark of 14:29, shared by Concordia's Dan Cloeter and Dean Ganges is expected to fall due to the entries of John Muthama of Bethel College, who took sixth in the Kansas Relays with a time of 13:47.2, and Marymount's Tony Brien who has been timed at 13:53 for the event this year.

Field events are set to begin at 3:30 p.m. and track events at 3:45.

Heinsohn Says Celtics Have It Together Now

By United Press International
Although his defending champion Celtics have surprisingly fallen two games down in their NBA Eastern Division final to Washington, Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn sees better days ahead in the immediate future. "I think we've got it together now," said the optimistic coach Friday after the Celtics concluded what he called "a good practice" in preparation for the third game of the best-of-seven set Saturday afternoon.

"I didn't look at the films of the last game in Washington. I didn't even have to. I could tell the guys were doing things like communicating, talking, finding each other, things we haven't been doing. We're just gonna have to play as tough as we can play. I'm not gonna tell you what we're gonna do. We gotta win this one."

In the Western Division

finals, meantime, Golden State and Chicago had an extra day of rest before resuming their series at Chicago Sunday afternoon. The Warriors and Bulls split the first two games.

The finalists in the American Basketball Association will be determined Saturday night when the Denver Nuggets host the Indiana Pacers in the seventh game of their Western Division championship. The survivor then will take on the Kentucky Colonels, who had an easy path to the Eastern Division title.

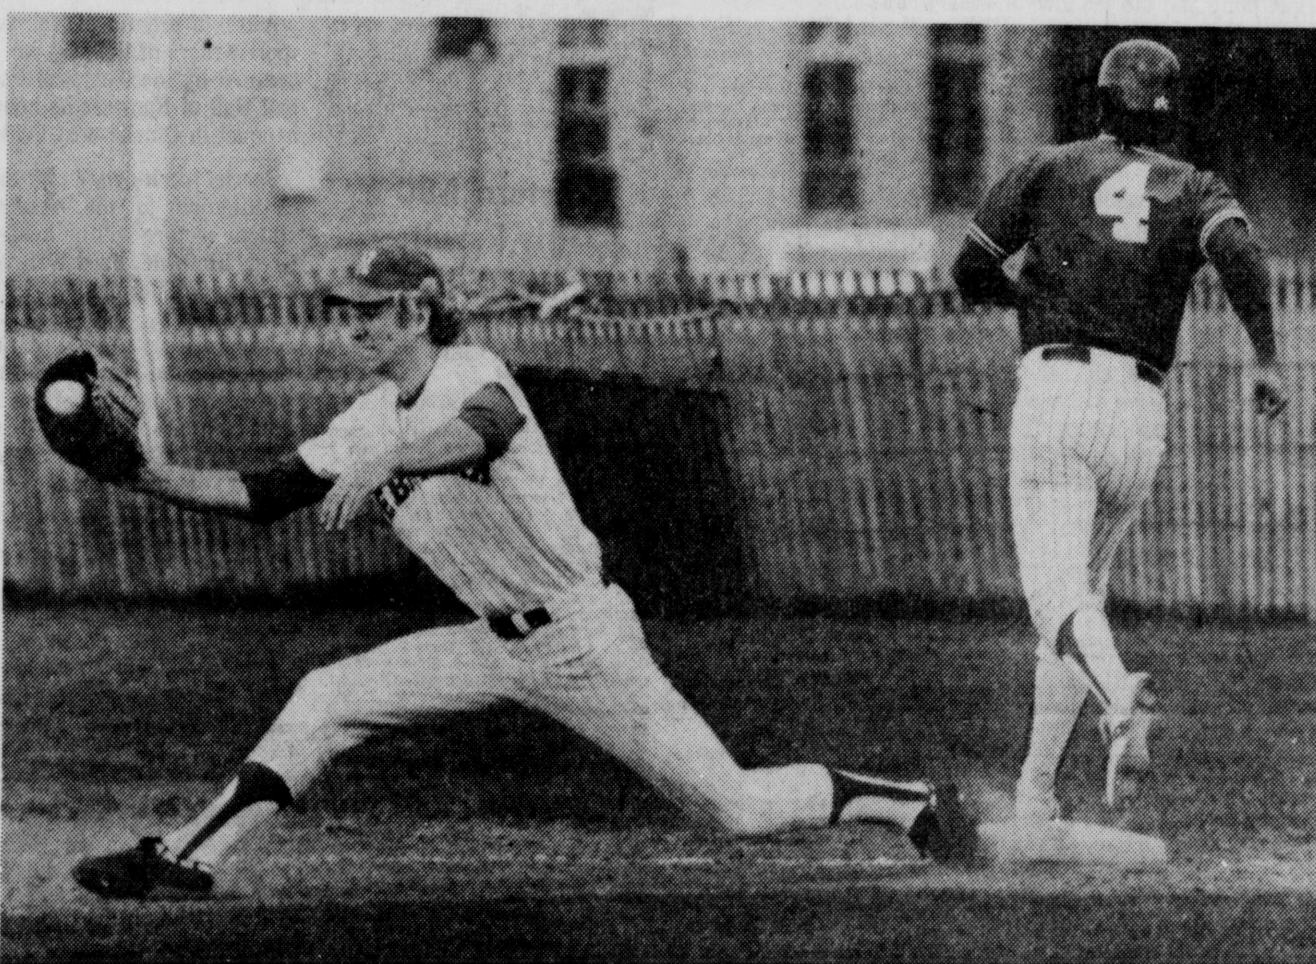

Heinsohn was encouraged by the Celtics' practice session Friday because "we were talking among ourselves out there, we had more concentration today than we've had in practices before our other two games this series."

"You can pull tactics until you're blue in the face, but if the ball's not going through the hoop for us, then it doesn't do any good. We shot well in the first half of Sunday's game, and that was it until the last quarter of Wednesday's game. And by that time, the Bulls had enough to stop us. Remember, we went into that quarter down by eight, and were all set. But they played well.

According to a statement by former Celtic great Bob Cousy, Boston has been hurt because team Captain John Havlicek has been getting the worst of his matchup with Washington forwards Mike Riordan and Nick Weatherspoon.

Although the Nuggets will have the homecourt advantage — where they were 40-2 during the regular season — Coach Larry Brown isn't sure just how much it will help.

'New' NU Eyes Red-White Tilt

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska football fans will get an opportunity to see the results of the rebuilding job Coach Tom Osborne and his staff have done this spring when the squad plays its annual Red-White game Saturday afternoon in NU's Memorial Stadium.

Kickoff will be at 1:30 p.m., hopefully before an all-time record spring crowd. The weatherman has promised a mostly fair afternoon with temperature around 70 degrees and winds 10 to 20 miles an hour out of the northwest.

Major areas to be rebuilt have been the offensive line, linebackers, and quarterback. Osborne feels there has been progress in all areas, but says "we're not there yet."

Terry Luck, senior-to-be from Fayetteville, N.C., has emerged as the No. 1 candidate to succeed Dave Humm at the all-important quarterback position. He'll guide the Red unit, which includes mostly first and fourth string players.

Vince Ferragamo and Tom Sorley, the top challengers for Luck's spot, will handle the offense for the White unit, which basically has second and third string players.

An area of interest, especially to the coaching staff, will be defensive end and safety because of the recent NCAA ruling which bars Ray Phillips and Jimmy Burrow from playing in the season opener here against Louisiana State on Sept. 13.

Phillips, who was ineligible last season, has worked his way into the starting spot as replacement for graduated Tom Pate at left defensive end.

He'll play in the game today, but coaches will study closely the play of his possible replacements for the LSU game.

The top backup people this spring have been George Andrews, a sophomore from Omaha, and Tom Coccia, a senior from Hillside, N.J., behind Phillips.

On the other end of the line behind returning starter Bob Martin have been Dave Redding, senior from North Platte, and Tony Samuel, a sophomore who has had some good moments this spring.

At safety, defensive backfield coach Warren Powers has two possible replacements for Burrow in Larry Valasek, sophomore from Silver Creek, and Ted Harvey, a soph from Lexington.

Valasek has been bothered all spring with an ankle and groin injury. Harvey has been worked at both cornerback and safety.

Sun And Snow Wins Kentucky Oaks Race

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Sun and Snow overtook pace-setting My Juliet with less than one eighth of a mile to go and then withstood a closing challenge by Funalon Friday to win the $65,100 Kentucky Oaks at Churchill Downs.

The victory was owner C.V. Whitney's fourth in the prestigious stakes for 3-year-old fillies which kicked off Kentucky Derby weekend at the Downs.

It was the second time in three years that a Whitney filly has upset a favored filly from Canada. In 1973 Whitney's Bag of Tunes upset La Prevoyante and this time the victim was Hosu.

Garth Patterson got Sun and Snow home in front of Funalon at the end of the 1 1/16 miles timed in 1:44 3-5. Funalon finished four lengths ahead of Sun and Snow's stablemate, Funny Cat, who saved the show by a half length over My Juliet.

Hosu, owned by Roxie Gian

and the 6-5 favorite with the crowd of 42,131, finished 10th in the 11-horse field. She was never really in the race. Mickey Solomone sent her up to challenge My Juliet on the first turn but she never really got the lead and began fading and drifting extremely wide on the backstretch. It was her second straight defeat after four straight victories this year.

The Whitney entry paid $9.80, $4.40 and $5. Funalon, owned by Old Bombast Farms, paid $5.20 and $4.20 as part of Leonard Imperio-trained entry with Precious Elaine.

Completing the order of finish for the 101st Oaks were High Estimate, Sweet Old Girl, Nicocia, Precious Elaine, Luxury, Hosu and Janie Bugs.

Sun and Snow overtook My Juliet on the outside and then held off Funalon who was outside of her and under strong urging by Braulio Baeza.

Early Friday evening, after rains had completely drenched competitors involved in the boys Trans-Nebraska and girls Eastern 1-80 Conference track meets at East High, the rains stopped and the sun came out, just in time to shine on the victory lap taken by Lincoln Northeast's boys and girls teams.

Rocket boys' coach Clayton Luther and girls' coach Nancy Bishop completed the lap in just over two minutes, after pausing for a moment to catch their breath at the 330-yard mark.

The Northeast girls were favored to win the initial 1-80 title, but Luther's boys were somewhat of a surprise in the Tran-Nebraska test.

With state powers North Platte and Grand Island and city champion East involved, Las Vegas odds-makers would have given astronomical odds against the Rockets coming out champions in both events.

North Platte wilted with the unfavorable conditions while

Northeast seemed to drive harder with the rain.

A bit of strategy in the early afternoon showers netted Northeast pole vaulter Rick Cole a gold medal in his event defeating the three North Platte vaulters ranked in the state lead.

Cole left his pole covered until the height of 12-6 was reached and took only one vault. His try was good while none of the others were able to match the height.

"Rick had vaulted 13-9 in practice this week," Luther said, "and he felt he had the confidence to wait until 12-6 to start. It worked out well because all the others were slipping on their poles."

The pole vault wasn't the only place where people were slipping.

In the high jump, Hastings' Doug Phelps, owner of the state's best mark of 6-9, was able to clear just 6-4 to tie his own record in the rain along with North Platte's Bruce Kucera.

Southeast's Rich Brandfas broke two of the three records set during the Trans-Nebraska competition, outdueling

Northeast's Steve Elikier in both hurdle events.

Brandfas sped to a :14.3 mark in the 120 highs and a :19.6 clocking in the 180 lows.

The high hurdle time is the second fastest recorded in the state this year, and his lows mark ties him for the top time in that event.

Southeast's Perry Krogmeier and East's Doug Caulkins combined for the other record set Friday.

In the 100 yard dash preliminaries, Krogmeier clocked :9.9 to wipe out the record held by Larry Tierney of Grand Island, Ron Strnad of Southeast and Bill Daffer of Grand Island.

Caulkins won the event in the finals matching the record set by Krogmeier.

In the 1-80 meet, all the marks set will stand as records since it's the first year for the meet.

Bishop labeled Janet Bates' 220 performance as the outstanding mark of the day for the Rocket girls team. Bates was clocked in :26.0, the fourth fastest time turned in this season.

Prince Astro Assigned Beef State Top Weight

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Prince Astro is up to his old tricks again.

Last year, he used a win in the Beef State Handicap as a springboard to later success at Ak-Sar-Ben. It was a nifty formula that produced earnings of $32,288.50 at the Omaha track for owner C. L. Warner of Arlington, Tex.

That's the same plan trainer W. C. Thomas is using again as Prince Astro heads a nine-horse field for Saturday's $25,000-added Beef State Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben.

In running a 1:03 4-5 clocking over the 5 1/2-furlong course last year, the 6-year-old roan packed 120 pounds. Apparently he's improved a little, at least according to racing secretary and handicapper John Maluvius who assigned the Prince 124 pounds.

He must concede from 7 to 16 pounds in the 5 1/2-furlong chase.

But the Prince must have a fast track — he can't handle the soft footing of an off-track.

If the track is fast, however, the Prince is definitely the one to catch. Besides the Beef State, Prince Astro also won Ak-Sar-Ben's Speed Handicap and finished third in the $55,888 Board of Governor's Handicap.

This season, Prince Astro won more than $42,000 at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Ark. with wins in the $25,000-added Count Fleet Handicap and the $25,000 Hot Springs Handicap.

Perhaps the most serious threat to Prince Astro will come from E. C. Cashman's Ride The Curl, who has been assigned 115 pounds. He was a $30,000 claim at Hialeah Park in Florida after capturing four races during the winter Florida racing season.

Racing with second top-weight of 117 pounds will be A. L. Lovelady's I'll Swanee, who won four of five races this season at Turf Paradise in Phoenix.

Regular rider Dan W. Whited will pilot Prince Astro, Salustio Burgos will guide I'll Swanee and no rider has been selected for Ride The Curl.

The High Country Stable's Aye Jay Aye and E. R. Eagen and Mary L. Tobin's Chance Landing, each been saddled with 116 pounds. Chance Landing captured four of seven 1974 races for winnings of $10,760 while Aye Jay Aye scored wins in two handicaps this spring at Detroit.

Other entrants and their weights include George McLoughlin's Brush Cutter, 113; B. R. Evans' Prayer Leader, 112; the Circle S Stable's Villa Fire, Ill.; and O. J. Glass' Color Me New, 108.

Derby Race Set

Ak-Sar-Ben will show the 101st Kentucky Derby on its closed circuit television monitors on Saturday. If the Derby does not conflict with an Omaha race, it will be shown live. Otherwise it will be taped and shown after the local race is completed.

23,000 Expected

Ak-Sar-Ben officials are expecting a crowd in excess of 23,000 for the first Saturday of racing. Last year's opening-Saturday crowd was 22,973.

FOOTBALL

The Los Angeles Rams signed Doug France, a tight end from Ohio State, their No. 1 draft choice. The Rams also signed nine other players, including defensive back Rod Perry of Colorado.

Other singess with the Rams were center Rick Nuzum of Kentucky, wide receiver Darius McCarthy of Southern Carolina State, defensive back John Washington of Tulane, linebacker Gordon Riegel of Stanford, defensive back A.J. Jacobs of Louisville, wide receiver Arthur Allen of Clark College, running back Francis Reynolds of Alcorn A&M and punter Skip Boyd of Washington.

Mike Brunson, wide receiver and Marty Shuford, running back, were added to the St. Louis Cardinals' team roster. The Cards also signed running back Willie Germany, their No. 2 draft choice to a multiyear contract.

The British Columbia Lions of the CFL claimed linebacker Larry Brame on waivers after he played out his option last season with the Hamilton, Ont. Tiger-Cats.

The San Antonio WFL franchise has named Terry Moss as head coach. The WFL team is still unnamed.

Pittsburgh Steeler running back Rocky Bleier, the only NFL player to serve in Vietnam, said he felt a "great remorse" over the fall of South Vietnam.

Cincinnati Bengals' defensive lineman Bob Maddox was indicted on a charge of possession of a hallucinogen for sale.

In the midst of an investigation of the Michigan State Universit football program, a report revealed that star MSU quarterback Charlie Baggett has purchased a new car under a delayed financing arrangement made possible by two Lansing businessmen.

BASEBALL

In a freak accident, Vincent Torres, a 13-year-old Little League second baseman in Florida, was killed in a collision with a baserunner. A baserunner tried to jump over Torres, but got a knee in the back of Torres' head.

Major league baseball's millionth run in history is expected to score late Saturday night or during a game in the Eastern time zone on Sunday.

A Hamilton County judge overruled an Ohio Liquor Control Commission order that would have left the Cincinnati Reds' concessionaires without liquor licenses.

The Atlanta Braves placed right-hander Mike Thompson on their roster and sold first baseman Frank Tepedino to their farm club.

TENNIS

Billie Jean King and Tony Trabert are favored to win the $20,000 first prize in the first international mixed double classic at John Gardner's tennis ranch this weekend.

National television ratings showed that the Jimmy Connors-John Newcombe challenge tennis match attracted more viewers than George Foreman's fight against five opponents.

Manuel Orantes and Jose Figueras posted straight-set victories to give Spain a 2-0 lead over Denmark in their Davis Cup European Zone elimination round. The matches are the best-of-five competition.

In other European Zone Davis Cup action Hungary won the opening two singles matches of its round against Holland. England also took their first two singles matches against Austria.

Egypt qualified for the fourth round of the Davis Cup, defeating Monaco 3-0.

Basketball In Panama?

Coch Joe Cipriano has pulled a "first" in his basketball recruiting. He has signed a 6-6 forward who played high school ball in his native Panama.

Cornhusker basketball recruit totals moved to four Friday with the news that the Panamanian, Fernando Chevanne, and 6-3 guard Alan Holder had inked national letters of intent.

They join a couple of Indiana high school products, 6-7 Val Martin of South Bend and 6-1 Brian Banks of Hammond, whose signings were announced a couple of weeks ago.

Just how did Cipriano find Chevanne? It's a simple story. Al Papik, director of admissions at NU, is a very good friend of some people in Panama who are interested in basketball. They told him about Chevanne and he relayed the message to Cipriano.

"Al got us involved in recruiting Fernando," Cip said. "We checked him out and decided he's a good prospect. He's probably the best kid ever to come out of Panama where the quality of basketball is on the upswing."

Cipriano said Chevanne has a lot of ability, is very quick, has good jumping ability, and has had a lot of experience.

Very Eager Prospect

"He's a very eager player," Cipriano added, noting that most foreign athletes usually are determined to prove themselves in their new country.

Chevanne, who is from Panama City, averaged 29 points and 10 rebounds for his high school. He was selected All-City, All-Nation and an all-star of the Central American and Caribbean countries.

This spring he was named most valuable player for his performance in a game between a Central American high school all-star squad and a team of Russian high school standouts. During that contest, he scored 34 points.

Holder played his high school basketball in Las Vegas and attended Seminole Junior College in Seminole, Okla. Cipriano said several other Big Eight schools had tried to sign him.

Holder averaged 15 points a game and was Seminole's leading rebounder as a guard with a 10.3 average. He was the leading assist man with eight a game and also was the team's top defensive player.

On top of his basketball ability, Holder also is an honor student.

Cipriano said he still is after two more players to complete 1975 recruiting. He thinks the quality of the signees so far is very good.

Catching Up On Sports

Colorado basketball coach Sox Walseth now has two signees for next year's freshman crop. They are Alfred Hicks, who is 6-9 and 200 pounds, and Tom Hinga, a 6-5, 185 pounder.

Hicks averaged 15.6 points a game for Denver South, which posted a 15-4 record. He's the first player from the Denver public school league to sign at CU since Jim Creighton signed in 1969.

Hinga, from Muncie, Ind., averaged 16 points and 13 rebounds last season. He's an all-around athlete, having been all-conference in football as a quarterback.

Kansas State has signed Larry Dossie, a 6-5 junior college all-American from Dodge City, but the Wildcats won't know whether they've got him for a while. He also signed conference letters of intent with Jacksonville and Louisiana State. His hometown is Jacksonville, Fla.

Such signings won't be possible if a proposed NCAA rule is passed eliminating conference letters and having just the national letter. Right now, a player doesn't have to ever sign the national letter.

Oklahoma State's Guy Strong has landed 6-8 Jim Murphy of Bixby, Okla. Murphy averaged 23.7 points and 19.1 rebounds a game last season.

Southeast Wins Golf Tourney

By RANDY YORK

Prep Sports Writer

Success has forced Knox Jones to reanalyze his golf goals.

Friday, the 15-year-old sophomore showed how far off base such a doubt was.

Buoyed by a pair of birdies and an eagle, Jones carded a 36-39-75 for medalist honors to lead the Knights to the Trans-Northeast Conference golf championship at Holmes Golf Course.

"I started as fifth man on our team this spring," Jones noted after his first major golf tournament victory.

"I shot an 80 in that first meet (the Southeast Invitational) and tied our No. 1 man, Steve Statton," he pointed out.

"That's when I started thinking differently," Jones said. "I figured if I could go out and do that in the first meet, I might as well start gunning more for the top."

Jones quickly moved to the No. 3 spot on coach Paul Austin's powerful team and even went to No. 1 status before dropping behind Statton again.

"I'm happy playing where I'm at. Steve's our best golfer and deserves to be No. 1," Knox said. "I'm just happy to win something like this. I've been finishing down the list most of the time."

The Knights started the season in much the same way in terms of team accomplishments, losing out to East during the early season.

"We're going well now though and we're not going to lose to East again," Jones said after Southeast outdistanced the runnerup Spartans by eight strokes Friday.

Jones believes Southeast, Omaha Westside and Ralston are the strongest threats for the state Class A golf championship later this month at Beatrice.

Jones recorded birdies on Nos. 6 and 17. The eagle, his second, came on the par 5, eighth hole.

Fonner Season Breaks Records

Grand Island, Neb. (UPI) — A Fonner Park official said today more than just track records were set during this year's season.

"We were up 6.5 per cent in attendance and 11.7 per cent in mutual handle for the year," said Al Swihart, general manager.

In terms of track records during the season, four of them were broken and one was tied.

Admittedly, Swihart said, an additional 12 days of racing was a big help in setting those records — 198,577 in attendance and $14,853,416 in mutual handle — but he added a sustained interest on the part of fans figure in as well.

"The last week we were able to hold that 11.7 per cent increase when usually we drop off a little bit," he said.

Swihart said every mutual record in the book was broken with the exception of the single race pool and "we just missed that one by $1,393 on April 12 when $72,875 was wagered on the fonner mile." The previous

Braves Topple Reds

By The Associated Press

Larvell Blanks' home run with two out in the ninth inning powered the Atlanta Braves to a 6-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Friday night.

Blanks connected off Clay Kirby, 1-3, for his second home run of the season.

Clarence Gaston's three-run pinch homer had given the Braves a 5-3 lead in the top of the seventh, but the Reds came back to tie the score in the bottom half of the inning, helped by an error by Blanks when he mis-played a relay throw from the outfield.

Elsewhere in the National League it was New York 3, Montreal 0; St. Louis 5, Chicago 1, and Philadelphia 9, Pittsburgh 5.

In the American League it was Texas 4, California 3; Milwaukee 4, New York 2; Cleveland 4, Baltimore 3; Minnesota 4, Kansas City 1, and Oakland 4, Chicago 3 in 12 innings. Detroit at Boston was rained out.

Jerry Kosman hurled a four-hitter and also singled in a run to lead the Mets past Montreal.

Bob Forsch hurled a three-hitter and Mike McBride and Ken Reitz smacked home runs to carry the St. Louis Cardinals over Chicago.

Mike Schmidt's three-run homer in the first inning helped the Philadelphia Phillies beat Pittsburgh.

The Rangers scored four runs in the ninth inning and beat the Angels with the winning run scoring when Frank Tanana uncorked a wild pitch with the bases loaded.

Home runs by Mike Hegan and Don Money backed the six-hit pitching of Billy Champion and helped Milwaukee defeat the Yankees.

Charlie Spikes tied the score for Cleveland with a run-scoring double in the eighth inning, then came home with the winning run on Rico Carty's single to down the Orioles.

Dan Ford collected his first two major league runs batted in for Minnesota, helping the Twins beat Kansas City.

Bill North singled home Claudell Washington with the winning run in the 12th inning, giving the A's their triumph over the White Sox.

In late NL games it was San Diego at Los Angeles and Houston at San Francisco.

Basketball In Panama?

Coach Joe Cipriano has pulled a "first" in his basketball recruiting. He has signed a 6-6 forward who played high school ball in his native Panama.

Cornhusker basketball recruit totals moved to four Friday with the news that the Panamanian, Fernando Chevanne, and 6-3 guard Alan Holder had inked national letters of intent.

They join a couple of Indiana high school products, 6-7 Val Martin of South Bend and 6-1 Brian Banks of Hammond, whose signings were announced a couple of weeks ago.

Just how did Cipriano find Chevanne? It's a simple story. Al Papik, director of admissions at NU, is a very good friend of some people in Panama who are interested in basketball. They told him about Chevanne and he relayed the message to Cipriano.

"Al got us involved in recruiting Fernando," Cip said. "We checked him out and decided he's a good prospect. He's probably the best kid ever to come out of Panama where the quality of basketball is on the upswing."

Cipriano said Chevanne has a lot of ability, is very quick, has good jumping ability, and has had a lot of experience.

Very Eager Prospect

"He's a very eager player," Cipriano added, noting that most foreign athletes usually are determined to prove themselves in their new country.

Chevanne, who is from Panama City, averaged 29 points and 10 rebounds for his high school. He was selected All-City, All-Nation and an all-star of the Central American and Caribbean countries.

This spring he was named most valuable player for his performance in a game between a Central American high school all-star squad and a team of Russian high school standouts. During that contest, he scored 34 points.

Holder played his high school basketball in Las Vegas and attended Seminole Junior College in Seminole, Okla. Cipriano said several other Big Eight schools had tried to sign him.

Holder averaged 15 points a game and was Seminole's leading rebounder as a guard with a 10.3 average. He was the leading assist man with eight a game and also was the team's top defensive player.

On top of his basketball ability, Holder also is an honor student. Cipriano said he still is after two more players to complete 1975 recruiting. He thinks the quality of the signees so far is very good.

Catching Up On Sports

Colorado basketball coach Sox Walseth now has two signees for next year's freshman crop. They are Alfred Hicks, who is 6-9 and 200 pounds, and Tom Hinga, a 6-5, 185 pounder.

Hicks averaged 15.6 points a game for Denver South, which posted a 15-4 record. He's the first player from the Denver public school league to sign at CU since Jim Creighton signed in 1969.

Hinga, from Muncie, Ind., averaged 16 points and 13 rebounds last season. He's an all-around athlete, having been all-conference in football as a quarterback.

Kansas State has signed Larry Dossie, a 6-5 junior college all-American from Dodge City, but the Wildcats won't know whether they've got him for a while. He also signed conference letters of intent with Jacksonville and Louisiana State. His hometown is Jacksonville, Fla.

Such signings won't be possible if a proposed NCAA rule is passed eliminating conference letters and having just the national letter. Right now, a player doesn't have to ever sign the national letter.

Oklahoma State's Guy Strong has landed 6-8 Jim Murphy of Bixby, Okla. Murphy averaged 23.7 points and 19.1 rebounds a game last season.

Southeast Wins Golf Tourney

By RANDY YORK

Prep Sports Writer

Success has forced Knox Jones to reanalyze his golf goals.

Six weeks ago, Jones seriously wondered if he could make Lincoln Southeast's varsity golf team.

Friday, the 15-year-old sophomore showed how far off base such a doubt was.

Buoyed by a pair of birdies and an eagle, Jones carded a 36-39-75 for medalist honors to lead the Knights to the Trans-Nebraska Conference golf championship.

"I started as fifth man on our team this spring," Jones noted after his first major golf tournament victory.

"I shot an 80 in that first meet (the Southeast Invitational) and tied our No. 1 man, Steve Statton," he pointed out.

"That's when I started thinking differently," Jones said. "I figured if I could go out and do that in the first meet, I might as well start gunning more for the top."

Jones quickly moved to the No. 3 spot on coach Paul Austin's powerful team and even went to No. 1 status before dropping behind Statton again.

"I'm happy playing where I'm at. Steve's our best golfer and deserves to be No. 1," Knox said. "I'm just happy to win something like this. I've been finishing down the list most of the time."

The Knights started the season in much the same way in terms of team accomplishments, losing out to East during the early season.

"We're going well now though and we're not going to lose to East again," Jones said after Southeast outdistanced the runnerup Spartans by eight strokes Friday.

Jones believes Southeast, Omaha Westside and Ralston are the strongest threats for the state Class A golf championship later this month at Beatrice.

Jones recorded birdies on Nos. 6 and 17. The eagle, his second, came on the par 5, eighth hole.

Fonner Season Breaks Records

Grand Island, Neb. (UPI) — A Fonner Park official said today more than just track records were set during this year's season.

"We were up 6.5 per cent in attendance and 11.7 per cent in mutual handle for the year," said Al Swihart, general manager.

In terms of track records during the season, four of them were broken and one was tied.

Admittedly, Swihart said, an additional 12 days of racing was a big help in setting those records — 198,577 in attendance and $14,853,416 in mutual handle — but he added a sustained interest on the part of fans figure in as well.

"The last week we were able to hold that 11.7 per cent increase when usually we drop off a little bit," he said.

Swihart said every mutual record in the book was broken with the exception of the single race pool and "we just missed that by one $1,393 on April 12 when $72,875 was wagered on the fonner mile." The previous

Dressage Meet Starts Saturday

Horses and riders from a six-state area will compete this weekend in the first Cornhusker Dressage Classic, to be held at the State Fairgrounds coliseum.

Sponsored by the Cornhusker Pony Club, the event is expected to draw 160 to 175 entries, according to show secretary, Dick Noonan.

Dressage — which is the French word for "training" — is a method of schooling a horse. It emphasizes suppleness, responsiveness to the rider, and the development of a horse's athletic ability.

It is perhaps best-known as the training method used at the famous Spanish Riding School in Vienna.

Dressage is also one of the Olympic equestrian events. Judging the two-day show will be Mrs. Robert Temple of Novelty, Ohio.

Braves Topple Reds

By The Associated Press

Larvell Blanks' home run with two out in the ninth inning powered the Atlanta Braves to a 6-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Friday night.

Blanks connected off Clay Kirby, 1-3, for his second home run of the season.

Clarence Gaston's three-run pinch homer had given the Braves a 5-3 lead in the top of the seventh, but the Reds came back to tie the score in the bottom half of the inning, helped by an error by Blanks when he mis-played a relay throw from the outfield.

Elsewhere in the National League it was New York 3, Montreal 0; St. Louis 5, Chicago 1, and Philadelphia 9, Pittsburgh 5. In the American League it was Texas 4, California 3; Milwaukee 4, New York 2; Cleveland 4, Baltimore 3; Minnesota 4, Kansas City 1, and Oakland 4, Chicago 3 in 12 innings. Detroit at Boston was rained out.

Jerry Koosman hurled a four-hitter and also singled in a run to lead the Mets past Montreal. Bob Forsch hurled a three-hitter and Bake McBride and Ken Reitz smacked home runs to carry the St. Louis Cardinals over Chicago. Mike Schmidt's three-run homer in the first inning helped the Philadelphia Phillies beat Pittsburgh.

The Rangers scored four runs in the ninth inning and beat the Angels with the winning run scoring when Frank Tanana uncocked a wild pitch with the bases loaded. Home runs by Mike Hegan and Don Money backed the six-hit pitching of Billy Champion and helped Milwaukee defeat the Yankees.

Charlie Spikes tied the score for Cleveland with a run-scoring double in the eighth inning, then came home with the winning run on Rico Carty's single to down the Orioles. Dan Ford collected his first two major league runs batted in for Minnesota, helping the Twins beat Kansas City. Bill North singled home Claudell Washington with the winning run in the 12th inning, giving the A's their triumph over the White Sox.

In late NL games it was San Diego at Los Angeles and Houston at San Francisco.

OU To Sweep

Shirley, 9-1, was working on a no-hitter in the first game when Kansas designated hitter Randy Trout dumped an opposite-field triple in the seventh inning. The shutout was spoiled when Trout scored on Ron MacDonald's infield out.
